POLITICAL NOTES.

—The Texas Bourbon Constitutional Convention has concluded to dispense with the services of a chaplain, the members probably considering themselves past all praying for.

—Old Bill Allen is getting sick, and his friends think of withdrawing him from campaign work. He will be a good deal sicker after the returns of the twelfth of October reach him.

—The Lancaster Intelligencer shouts "Rise up, Cyrus Pershing!" He rose up to the top of the tree, above all the other Legislative roosters, when he was a member of the Legislature.

—The New York World prints an elaborate article on "The Science of Politics." With the Democratic party it is nothing more than a scramble for place and power at any price of probity and honor.

—Hughes, the reputed author of the financial plank in the Democratic State platform, during the war made a speech in which he declared that the day would come when a bushel of greenbacks would not buy a bushel of potatoes.

—The Mississippi Democrats seem to think that the chief end of Southern white men is to murder negroes, and of the negroes to be murdered. If silence implies consent it is also to be inferred that Northern Democrats indorse this opinion.

—Hon. Carl Schurz, who has just returned from Europe, is going to Ohio to speak for the Republican party. He says the success of the Democrats in that State would be a disgrace to the nation, and an almost irreparable calamity.

—The Cincinnati Enquirer, which less than two weeks ago, speaking of "the Democratic pyramid for 1875," said: "We will add to this the electoral votes of Maine," now remarks: "The election in Maine is a pleasing surprise to the Democrats."

THE ERIE PLATFORM.

The Erie platform, instead of being the truthful utterance on the financial question of an honest political party, moved by principle, it is the promulgation of political demagogues who aim to secure political preferment by the grossest deception, and a species of clap-trap that could subject them to the same ignominious defeat that their hip-hurrah for Greeley did in 1872. The financial question is one of importance, and we are strongly in favor of our present financial system being modified and liberalized. But that can not be accomplished by mere false declarations, made for the purpose of political success. It can only be accomplished by a broad and pure statesmanship, that will inspire confidence and maintain the credit of the nation at a high standard. We believe in a flexible currency, issued by the nation, and made a full legal tender. But the Democratic party has always decried greenbacks—declared them unconstitutional, and to-day so hold them by their ablest state and national leaders. We take pleasure in giving to our readers some of the Democratic views of the greenback currency, as expressed in the Democratic Watchman of January 8, 1869:

> Continental money was first issued in 1775. Three years afterward, depreciation began, and continued as follows: In March, 1778, $1.00 in coin was worth $1.75 in paper. In September $1.00 in coin was worth $4.00 in paper. In March, 1779, $1.00 in coin was worth $16.00 in paper; and in September, same year, $19.00 in paper. In 1780 $1.00 in coin was worth $40.00 in paper; and in December, same year, $160.00. In May, 1781, $1.00 in coin would buy $500.00 in paper. Not long after this period the holder of government money paid $20,000 for a ham, and $10,000 for a half pound of tea. There was no complaint in those days against the fairness of the government indebtedness; yet repudiation went steadily and rapidly on until the Continental currency became entirely worthless. These facts should serve as a warning to the people of the present day. It is true our rag currency has not depreciated as rapidly or to such an extent as the Continental money, but this is not owing to its value, but simply because a large banking and other nominal interests have combined to keep a temporary vitality in it, through various financial expedients, in order to make their profits. Artificial props are now all that prevent the whole paper system from toppling to the ground. So soon as it shall suit the combination of nominal interests to overthrow the rag system, down it will go. It will be a terrible day for the tax-ridden people, but will many of them who have sold their principles—yea, their very souls—for a miserable mess of these Radical rags, deserve sympathy? Not a bit of it. They have shouted, and voted, and worked for years, for the party that stole from the coffers of the government its shining gold, and put in its place piles of greasy greenbacks, and when the day of retribution and repudiation comes—when a cord of this besmeared paper will not buy a patch for ragged pants—they will begin to understand the robbery that radical rascals have practiced upon them, and the extent to which they have been pauperized. Repudiation is coming.

Now, is there a true Republican, in face of the above, in Centre county, who would be willing to trust the Democratic party to issue the greenbacks of the country? The Democratic party is the party of repudiation. It is the party that to-day believes that the government has no right to issue greenbacks—that it is unconstitutional to do so. That being so, is not their greenback cry false—a deceit, a snare, and a fraud, equal to their Greeley cry in 1872? Surely it is. And were they to get into power, they would not do that which they proclaim to the people they will do. Were they to get into power and undertake to issue greenbacks in unlimited quantities, as they profess to the masses of the people they would, the credit of the nation would be so impaired at once as to compel repudiation of the national debt, as predicted by Meek in 1869, and every holder of a greenback would lose just what he had given for it, as it would be worthless. The only party that can provide for the issue of more greenbacks is the party that created and originated them. In the hands of the Republican party, greenbacks can be made a full legal tender, and the credit of the nation preserved. The only honest greenback men are Republicans. They are Judge Kelley, Wendell Philips, H. C. Carey, and others of that school.

Then we exhort every honest citizen who is interested in the welfare of himself and his country, not to be deceived by this Democratic greenback cry—because it means repudiation, and a total wiping out of the greenback termed by the Watchman, "greasy greenbacks," "besmeared paper," etc., and an absolute total loss to every holder of a greenback of its promised value. We want a little more protection in the shape of a tariff, than we do a floodgate of greenbacks. We may need both, but will never get either through the Democratic party, because it has always been the anti-tariff and anti-greenback party. And it is no more honest in its greenback cry now than it was when it put on the whole hat, rolled up the left pants leg, and hip-hurrahed for Greeley in 1872. The Democrats can not be trusted.

RETRENCHMENT AND REFORM.

We most earnestly appeal to the voting citizens of Centre county to consult their own interest in the coming county election. That the county has been unnecessarily burdened with taxation by Democratic maladministration, there can be no question. That it has been so burdened by most extravagant printing bills, filched out of the Commissioners by P. G. Meek, the editor of the pseudo-temperance Watchman, we have clearly shown. That Meek has, when he could, charged three prices for printing, as in the case of the publication of the mercantile appraisers' list—for which he charged $46 when the legitimate fees amounted to only $21—is clear beyond contradiction or denial. That the Commissioners have been for some years used by Meek, is clear. That there is something rotten in the Commissioners' office, is very certain. If there is not, why the discrepency between the Commissioners' books and the Auditor's reports, as published in the Watchman some weeks ago. Meek says he received nothing for printing for the year 1868. The Commissioners' books show he received orders amounting to $300 in the year 1868. Who is defrauding the tax-payers of Centre county? Meek ought to cry corruption against the State Treasury. He thinks by so doing he can cover up his own fraud and corruption. We here say, that in the Jail swindle and the Meek operations, the tax-payers of Centre county have been grossly defrauded and imposed upon, and been compelled to pay THOUSANDS of dollars more taxes than they should have paid if we had been honestly served by honest officials, and not by officials who were the tools of a political ring. Let the County Commissioners' office be cleaned out. Let the discrepancies of their books be examined and explained to the people of Centre county. Let the great Jail swindle (of which more anon) be unearthed and brought to light. The only way it can be done is to elect the two Republican Commissioners, Gregg and Rogers, this fall. It cannot be investigated with a majority of the Commissioners Democratic, because Democrats never investigate their own frauds, and fraudulent official conduct.

We therefore again exhort the citizens of Centre county not to overlook the great importance of our county campaign. Our self interest in a pure, economical local government demands that we exert ourselves to secure it. Our county matters need investigation, and they will never be investigated and corrected without an uprising of the people against the present political power that controls them. Down with Meekism.

MAJOR GEORGE A. BAYARD, our candidate for Treasurer, is one of the best men ever presented to the people of Centre county for office. He is a representative man, one of the toiling millions, who makes his living by the sweat of his brow. He is a gentleman who responded to his country's call when the life of the nation was in danger, and suffered the penalties of Libby prison while Dan Musser was plotting treason at home and sympathizing with the enemies of our country abroad; he now comes before the people of Centre county asking them to make him guardian of the county funds, in preferance to Major Bayard, the people's candidate. Voters, pause and reflect.

FARMERS, Mechanics, and laboring men, who ever heard a miller charged with being an honest man? Notwithstanding we never did, the Centre County Democracy have set up Dan Musser for county treasurer, who has grown rich by tolling Pennsvalley grain, who now proposes to toll the tax-payers' money in the same proportion. We call upon the voters not to trust a rich miller. He has an air of peculation about him, which is not deserving of confidence. Vote for honest George A. Bayard, the people's candidate.

THE DIFFERENCE.

Below we give the utterances of the Republican and Democratic parties on the money question. Look at the plank adopted by the Pennsylvania Republicans at Lancaster:

> Free banking, a safe and uniform national currency, ADJUSTED TO THE GROWING WANTS OF THE BUSINESS INTERESTS OF THE COUNTRY, and a steady reduction of the national debt.

Now let the admiring gaze of the Centre county Democrat rest on the solemn deliverances of the mixed Democratic conventions of three of the greatest and wealthiest States in the Union. Here is straight-out, consistent, united:

DEMOCRACY.

Pennsylvania.

That the contraction of the money currency and circulating medium heretofore made by the Republican party, and the further contraction proposed by it with a view to the forced resumption of specie payments, has already brought disaster to the business of the country and threatens general bankruptcy. We demand that this policy be abandoned, and that the volume of money be made and kept equal to the wants of trade, leaving the restoration of legal tenders to par is gold to be brought about by promoting the industries of the people, and not by destroying them.

Ohio.

That the contraction of the currency heretofore made by the Republican party, and the further contraction proposed by it with a view to the forced resumption of specie payments, has already brought disaster to the business of the country, and threatens it with general bankruptcy and ruin. We demand that this policy be abandoned, and that the volume of the currency be made and kept equal to the wants of trade, leaving the restoration of legal tenders to par with gold to be brought about by promoting the industries of the people, and not by destroying them.

New York.

A speedy return to specie payments is demanded, alike by the highest considerations of commercial morality and honest government.

The present depression of business is caused by the reaction from the unhealthy stimulus of an excessive depreciated and irredeemable currency; by enormous and ill-adjusted Municipal, State, and Federal taxation, and by extravagance, waste, and peculation in the administration of public affairs. The remedy for this evil is not to be found in the renewal of any of these courses.

In face of the fact that the existing volume of currency is greater than can be absorbed by business; in the face of the fact that the recent fall of prices was followed by repeated inflations, any attempt to increase the currency would be worse than ineffectual to revive prosperity, for it would interrupt the healing processes of industry, it would be worse than futile to restore confidence; for it would create distrust and new uncertainties in business, paralyze the beginnings of enterprise, rob labor of its too scanty employment, and while stifling the progress of legislative reforms, would inflict lasting dishonor upon the credit, the intelligence and the character of the country.

Gold and silver the only legal tender; no currency inconvertible with coin.

Steady steps toward specie payments; no step backward.

THE Pennsylvania Democracy have gone through the farce of nominating a hard-money candidate for Governor on an inflation platform. Is it possible that the people can be deceived by a fraud so transparent? The people of this part of the State will no doubt remember the way the people were deluded last year when there were congressmen to elect. Did not the Democratic party nominate a national bank man for Congress, and a railroad man for State Senator? Were not these men two of the most pronounced monopolists to be found in this section of country? Did we not warn the people that it was not safe to trust men, however strong their proclivities, whose interests were not identical with the interests of the common people? Did the people listen to our appeal? No. They elected Mackey to Congress, and Wallace, of coffee-pot fame, to the State Senate, and from there to the United States Senate? And now one of these men at least, has shown his hand by fighting for hard money, as hard as he knew how, at Erie. And now the Democracy of the State propose to play this same foul game; and while they deceive the people with an inflation platform, they nominate a hard-money man. The people ask them for bread and they give them a stone.

—We are sad and dejected. Our faith in reform is shaken. We had expected the Democracy to reform the affairs of State when they got into power. We looked to them to purchase back from the Pennsylvania Railroad Company the State works: to restore the tax on real estate which the profligrate Republicans repealed: to give us back the good old State banks with plenty of good Democratic bank notes; to put a stop to this reckless spending of the people's money in buying in the State bonds, and restore unto us that $40,000,000 of Democratic debt which we had had before these reckless Republicans got into power. We hoped to have seen these free schools abolished, as they only help to make Republican votes, and the soldiers' orphans' schools done away with, and things restored to what they were before these Republicans turned everything upside down.—[Norristown Independent.

THE "DEMOCRATIC WATCHMAN" AND TEMPERANCE.

Ever since the editor of the Watchman was at Harrisburg, and got filled up with crooked whiskey that muddled his vision to such an extent as to cause him to mistake a fire engine-house for Gov. Hartranft's stable, he has been very generous in his advice and exhortations to temperance men, and especially the Republican portion of them, to vote for Browne and Pennypacker. He says Hartranft should be defeated because he vetoed the law repealing local option, but does not think Browne and Pennypacker should be elected. But we advise Republicans to beware of wolves in sheep's clothing; and beware of Democratic counsel, as it is extremely hypocritical.

Listen to the Watchman's views of local option, and its abuse of the Republican legislature that refused to repeal the law in the winter of 1873. Read the Watchman of May 15, 1874:

> The bill to repeal the Local Option law came up in the House on Monday and was defeated by a decisive vote. So the law stands for at least one year more, and any effort to repeal it will undoubtedly fail next winter. Seriously, the law ought to be repealed, for the simple reason that it is the greatest farce that ever occupied space on the statute book. It is violated every day and every hour, and in the worst possible manner. More strong drink is sold now than during the prevolence of the license system. Why, every man now carries his bottle with him, or has it in some convenient spot where he can reach it at all hours of the day or night; and it is even delivered to buyers on the street corners by persons who make a business of that kind of thing. Strangers who visit local option towns, like Bellefonte or Williamsport, carry their liquor with them, and they drink more than they ever thought of drinking before. All on the principle, too, that stolen fruit is the sweetest, or that a man will eat and drink just whatever he pleases in spite of all laws that may be made to prevent him. But another year's experience of the law will demonstrate its worthlessness, we think, to everybody. By that time the demand for its repeal will be universal and will be granted.

Was there ever baser hypocrisy manifested than is evidenced by the Watchman in its meretricious advocacy of the temperance movement. We say to Republicans, do not be deceived. Who, on reading the above from the "Watchman," can deny but what the repeal of the local option law, was a question in the campaign of 1874?

IF ever there was a man nominated for an office by a combination of political bankers, that man is the Democratic candidate for County Treasurer, Dan Musser. It is a notorious fact that Musser and P. Gray Meek were in secret connivance with the Centre County Banking Company, for weeks before the Democratic Convention met, and the result of their doings was fully consummated by the action of the convention. When we come to consider that the capital stock of the Centre County Banking Company is seventy-five thousand dollars, of which the First National owns "forty thousand dollars," no sane man can come to any other conclusion but that Musser is the candidate of the moneyed monopolists. He being a rich man, in consideration of which, was enabled to obtain the banking influence to the detriment and defeat of the more deserving candidates of his own party. The "Watchman" now comes to his rescue by turning bush-whacker in the interests of capital, and proposes to do the sharp shooting to augment the capital of the First National Bank, under the guise of an anti-bank democracy. This is a statement of the true situation, and is in keeping with Mr. Meek's political history, who has always run his paper in the interest of those that paid the best.

THE Democrats of Mississippi resolved, last winter, to establish a reign of terror in that State, if they could succeed in no other way. They were determined to carry the State, and if they could not outnumber the negroes they could, at least, murder them. The work of slaughter appears to have been begun at Clinton, and the news of outrages in that quarter are but the prelude to a general campaign of blood which the Democrats have, of set purpose, planned as their sole means of attaining political power. The Clinton outrage was not accidental or casual; it was part of a general plan, formed in cold blood, and prosecuted with political venum.

—It cannot be said that Mr. Piollet is in favor of a debased currency. As a legislator he spurned the base effort to bribe him with uncurrent funds. He was not to be bought with notes so much below par as the bills of the Plainfield (N. J.) Bank. He wanted par funds or none.

OUR ASSOCIATED PRESS LETTER.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept 22, 1875.

POLITICAL.

The Clans are gathering their trusty leaders about them and are sending them out as shirmishers to feel the public pulse on the questions at issue. The plan of the Democrats, adopted last March, to make thier issue altogether upon the management of the State Treasury, is being faithfully carried out. The first mass meeting of the Democratic party of this city threw a damper over the ardor of the leaders. Among the speakers announced were Hon Samuel J. Randall, A. H. Coffroth, W. S. Stenger, of Chambersburg, Hendrick B. Wright, B. M. Boyer, and Henry S. Hagert, all of whom sent their regrets as not being able to attend. As Mr. Randall was in the city at the time, and Mr. Hagert being the Democratic candidate for Quarter Sessions Clerk, and is withal a good speaker, the meeting had a right to express its indignation at finding but two little lawyers of our city on hand, and General Brindle, the president of the Greenback Convention. As the meeting did not care to be Brindleized, the General had but few hearers of the many hundreds who went to the meeting. It was altogether a badly managed affair in not having some good speakers in reserve.

Ex-Mayor Vaux, who took such an active part at the Erie Convention, has returned from a trip through the State, and after mingling with the public of his native city for two or three days, is a good deal discouraged at the course things are taking in this city; he does not believe that inflation will add any votes to the Democratic column throughout the rural sections of the State, and he knows that with the Public Ledger taking strong ground against inflation, backed by the very decided action of the entire mercantile and manufacturing interests of this city, a large vote, aggregating several thousands, will be lost to his party. Mr. Vaux is loud in praise of Pershing and Piollet; he regards them as personally up to the Jeffersonian standard—honest and capable—and only regrets that they are greenbacks instead of yellow-bellies.

The Republicans have already secured a class of men as their speechmakers in the campaign, who have not made political speeches since the close of the war. These gentlemen are men not given to politics but rather to making machinery, etc.; men who are recognized as being at the head of our industrial establishment. I throw out this hint that the opposition may see what the other fellow is doing.

WESTERVELT.

This young man has been on his trial for more than two weeks as an accessory in the abduction of Charlie Ross. The assistant District Attorney, Mr. Hagert, who is candidate for a profitable office before the people, had a splendid case, but he has surprised everybody with the weakness of his effort to connect Westervelt, the brother-in-law of Bill Mosher, with the abductors. He has presented no evidence whatever that would warrant a jury in giving a verdict of guilty, and yet 99 per cent. of our people regard Westervelt as guilty. The case is still going on, and if Mr. Hagert does fail to win his case it will cost him more ballots in November than he can afford to lose.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A sad accident happend to a lad in this city a few days ago. A party of boys were in the habit of meeting once a week, in an empty stable, for the purpose of having an amateur theatre. Their last play was "Wide Awake;" in the course of the play, Samuel Stroup, aged 13, entered from the side upon the stage, and as he came in, another youth named Wise, aged 11, raised a gun, and pointed it at Stroup, which, being loaded, went off, discharging its contents full in the eyes and nose of Stroup; the wounded boy was removed to the hospital, where he died immediately upon reaching it. The boy Wise, never had a gun in his hands before, and this was the property of the Stroup family, he did not know that it was loaded.

Aleck McClure is giving the policy-shop men "particular blazes;" he has located about thirty of these policy venders with a minuteness that is marvelous. I question whether any other man in this city—editor or layman—could so thoroughly locate the policy-shops. Col. McClure, in his paper, names the venders, locates the "shops," and gives the whole modus operandi with a familiarity appalling, after which, he calls upon the Mayor of the city to suppress them.

I thought as I read the articles in McClure's paper, it so be that the Mayor in issuing his orders to his chief of police, should make the little mistake of ordering the arrest of the "poker" and "set back euchre" men, instead of the policy venders, what a sad spectacle the master reformer of American politics might present to the public gaze.

Ex-Gov. James Pollock has gone to Ohio to talk hard money, and help the hurrah of the Republicans over the public school question.

The Evening Bulletin, of this city, has repeatedly charged the contractor for furnishing the marble work for our new City Hall, with fleecing the city out of a large sum of money by giving a different article from what the specifications call for, and the Bulletin insists that if the contractors felt aggrieved, they might sue the Bulletin for libel; that the contractors have just done, and both the Bulletin's and contractor's lawyers are happy.

Poetry.

Why He Takes Them.

[Among shepherds it is customary, when a flock will not cross a river, to carry one of the lambs to the opposite shore, when, attracted by its bleating, the mother will at once cross, followed by the whole flock.]

The flock stood waiting by the rapid river,
And would not cross.
Although the shepherd kindly called them thither,
And banks of moss,
And fields of grass, and verdant hills, surrounded
The further shore:
The danger all their narrow vision bounded
Of crossing o'er.

He stretched his kindly arms and gently called them;
They would not heed;
The deep, broad river's rapid stream appalled them,
Though pleasant mead
And mountain fair, beyond the darkling river,
Rose to their view;
And in the distance, bright, unfading ever,
Were pastures new.

The shepherd took a lamb, and softly bore it
Within his arms
To where the pasture brightly gleamed before it,
And all alarms
Were hushed. The mother heard its voice of pleading,
And crossing o'er
The flock behind her followed in her leading,
Unto the shore.

O, stricken hearts, all torn with grief, and bleeding,
A saviour's voice
Ye would not hear, nor follow in His leading
Of your own choice!
And so he takes your lambs unto His keeping,
That eyes all dim
And dark with sorrow's clouds, sad with weeping,
May look to Him,
And see, beyond the darkly-rolling river,
Those gone before,
And to the fields with verdure green forever
Cross safely o'er.

Our Story Teller.

The Judge's Adventure.

A STORY OF EARLY TIMES.

Judge Crane, of New York, was a very eccentric man. He was very wealthy, and was highly respected for his public and private virtues, but he always dressed in a plain garb, and would hardly ever wear an overcoat, whatever might be the state of the weather.

On the morning of the day in which the court was to begin, the judge set out before daylight, and walked gently on, through the hail, rain and snow, to the appointed place. On arriving at Poughkeepsie, cold and wet, he walked to the tavern, where he found the landlady, and her servants were making great preparations for the grand entertainment of the judges, lawyers, etc.

The judge was determined to have some sport, and in a pleasant tone addressed the landlady.

"I have no money, and was obliged to come to court, and I have walked through this dreadful storm more than twenty miles, I am wet and cold, dry and hungry. I want something to eat before the court begins."

The landlady put herself in a very magisterial posture, and put on a countenance of contempt.

"Very well," said she, "I will give you some cold victuals, if you will go into the back yard and cut and split three armfuls of wood and bring it into the kitchen where the servants want to make a good fire to dry the gentlemen's great coats when they come; and after you get your victuals I want you to go away."

After some trouble the Judge secured a cold bite, and then the landlady told him to be off, as she needed the fire to dry the gentlemen's coats and umbrellas by.—"And among the rest," she said "we expect Judge Crane."

"Judge Crane," said the Judge, "who is Judge Crane?"

"The Circuit Judge," said she; "one of the supreme judges, you old fool."

"Well," said the Judge, "I bet a goose that Judge Crane has not had, and will not have, a great coat on his back, or an umbrella over his head this day."

"You old goose," said she, "I care nothing for your bets. Eat, and then be off, I tell you; Judge Crane is to be here, and we've no room for you."

"I don't care said he," one rye straw more for Judge Crane than I do for myself, and it is got to be so late that if he has to come at this time of day, he would be more likely to go direct to the court house, and stay until dinner-time than to go to any tavern, and if business was very urgent he would be likely to stay away even from dinner. I know something about the old codger, and some people say he is a rusty, crusty, fusty old fudge."

"Pretty talk, indeed," said the landlady, about the Supreme Judge."

"I tell you," said the Judge, "Judge Crane is not the Supreme Judge, and even if he were he is no more fit to be a Judge than I am."

"Well, now, be off with yourself," said she.

When the Judge withdrew, the landlady anxiously looked after him for some time as he steadily walked toward the court house, supposing him to be some poor man summoned up to court as a witness, or some culprit, or some vagabond who might give her further trouble in time of court, and expressed to her servants a desire that they would see that he did not disturb the gentlemen and the judges who might put up there; while some of the girls declared if he did come, they would use some of his own expression, which he used respecting Judge Crane. "Let me see," says one, "rusty, crusty"—"yes, and fusty old fudge," says another.

When the dinner was announced, the court, not being thronged, was immediately adjourned, and the day being stormy and cold, the judges and lawyers poured into the sheriff's tavern, and they were sure of good fare, all except Judge Crane, who walked to a store and purchased a valuable shawl, and put it into his pocket on the inside of his coat; then he walked quietly to the tavern. While he was thus detained, the landlady entered the dining-room, and earnestly inquired if Judge Crane had come in. The answer was: "Not yet, madam, and perhaps he may not come."

The landlady, who was anxious to pay the highest respect to the Supreme Judge, retired to the kitchen not a little chagrined and disappointed. In the meantime the Judge had arrived, and being at proper times very sociable, and at times fond of cheering the minds of those present, he began to make some pertinent remarks, and to tell some lively anecdotes, calculated to convey good morals, which kept the whole company in a continued roar of laughter. At this instant one of the waiting girls entered the room to inform the gentlemen that they might sit down to dinner. She did her errand, and hastened back to her mistress with the tidings that the old fusty fellow with the broad-brimmed hat on was right in among the gentlemen, talking as loud as he could, and all the judges and lawyers were laughing at him.

"Then go," says she, and whisper to the old man that dinner is to come down into the k[illegible]

The errand was [illegible], and the Judge, in a low [illegible] said to the girl:

"Tell your mistress that I have a little business to do with some of these lawyers, and when done I'll be off in the course of two or three days."

The girl returned and faithfully rehearsed the message, and added that she believed the old fellow was drunk, or he would not have said, "as soon as my business is done, I'll be off in two or three days."

"Well, Betty," said the mistress, "go back, and when the gentlemen begin to sit down, do you stand by the head of the table, and whisper to some gentlemen that I wish a vacant place left at the head of the table for Judge Crane, and do you hasten back."

Betty again repaired to her post at the head of the table, and softly informed a gentleman of the request of her mistress.

"Certianly," said the gentleman.

Betty now hastened back to assist John. The gentlemen now sat down to an excellent repast, and after a short ejaculatory address to the throne of grace, delivered by Judge Crane, in which he adored the Father of all mercies for feeding all his creatures throughout the immensity of space, invoked a blessing on that portion of earthly bounty then before them, and supplicated Divine mercy through the merits of our Redeemer, the gentlemen began to carve and serve round in usual form.

But as the Judge was of a singular turn in almost everything, and had taken a fancy that if a person eats light food at the same meal, and that which is more solid and harder of digestion, the light food should be eaten first; he therefore filled his plate with some pudding, made of milk, rice and eggs, and placing himself in rather an awkard situation, with his left elbow on the table, and his head near the plate, began to eat according to his custom, which was very fast, although he was no great eater. And some of the gentlemen near the Judge, following his example as to partaking the pudding before the meat, of course a large, deep vessel, which had contained that article, was nearly emptied when Mary approached with her two additional tureens of gravy, according to the command of her mistress, and as she sat down the last near the Judge he said to her in an austere manner:

"Girl, bring me a clean plate to eat salad on."

The abrupt manner in which he addressed her, and her disgust in seeing him there in that position, so disconcerted the poor girl that she did not observe that any one except the Judge had partaken of the pudding, nor did she know what he meant by salad, but she observed that the large pudding pan was nearly empty, and hastened back with the utmost speed to her mistress.

"Why, madam, that old fellow is there yet, and he is certainly crazy or drunk, for he is down at the table, and has eaten all the rice pudding already, and his nose is right down in a platterful now, shovelling it in like a hog, and he told me, as if he was lord of the manor, to bring a clean plate to eat salad on. Bless me, where can we get salad at this time of year? And the gentlemen has not done carving, and not one has begun to eat meat, much less a tubful of pudding."

"Aye, he'll get a clean plate," says Martha, "before gentlemen want clean plates."

"I'll clean him out," says the mistress, and starts for the dining room, burning with indignation.

The Judge was remarkable for not giving unnecessary trouble to anybody where he put up, and generally ate what was set before him without any remarks; and seldom made use of more than one plate at a meal; but at this time he had observed near him a dish of beautiful raw cabbage, cut up and put in vinegar, (which the Germans at Poughkeepsie call "cold slaw," and which he called salad,) and he wished for a separate plate to prepare some of it for his own fancy. The carving and serving were not finished, when he expected the clean plate, and when the landlady arrived at the door of the dining-room, determined to drive him out, she advanced with a firm step to the door, and fixed her keen eye firmly on the Judge, when he turned his eye that way, and observed her, mildly said:

"Landlady, can I have a clean plate to eat some salad on?"

"A clean plate and salad!" retorted the landlady indignantly. "I wish you would come into the kitchen until the gentlemen have dined; I had reserved that seat for Judge Crane."

The company was struck with astonishment; and fixed their eyes alternately on the landlady and on the Judge, and sat or stood in mute suspense, when the Judge gracefully raised himself up in the chair, carelessly folded his arms across his breast, and then, putting his head awkwardly on one side, said:

"You reserved this seat for Judge Crane, did you, landlady?"

"Indeed I did," said she.

"It was very kind," said he, in an ironical tone, "but if you will step to the door and see if he is coming, or send one of the servants to call him, with your permission and the approbation of these gentlemen with whom I have some business to do, I will occupy this seat until you shall find the Judge."

"Find the Judge!" said she, with emphasis; "go look for him yourself, not send me or my servants. I gave you your breakfast this morning for chopping a little wood, because you had no money; and I expected you would go away quietly and keep away, and now you must come here to disturb gentlemen at dinner."

Here the whole joke burst upon the minds of the gentlemen present, who fell into a loud fit of laughter. After the tumult had a little subsided the Judge said mildly:

"Did I chop wood to pay for my breakfast?"

"Indeed you did," said she, "and said you had no money."

"I told you the truth," said the Judge, "but I have a beautiful shawl, worth about ten dollars, which I just now bought, and will leave with you in pawn, if you will only let me eat dinner with these gentlemen."

Here the gentlemen were biting their lips to keep from laughter.

How did you buy a shawl worth more than ten dollars, without any money?"

"I bought it on credit," said he.

"And where did you get credit to that amount," said she.

"I brought it from home," said he.

"That's a likely story, and something like your abuse of Judge Crane, this morning," said she.

"How could I abuse the Judge if he was not present," said he.

"Why," said she, "you called him a rusty, fusty fudge, and an old codge, and said that you did not care a rye straw more for him than you did for yourself."

And here the whole company were in an uproar of laughter again. But as soon as it had a little subsided, one of the gentlemen asked the landlady how she knew the gentleman she was addressing was not Jude Crane? "He looks more like a snipe than a crane!" said she.

Here the loud laughter burst forth a third time. And after a little pause the Judge said:

"I must confess that I am not a bird of very fine feathers, but I assure you I am a Crane, and a crane is often a very useful instrument. I saw a very good one in your kitchen this morning; and sometimes an instrument called a 'crane is of incalculable use, madame."

Before she had time to reply, some of the gentlemen with whom she was acquainted assured her that she was talking with the president judge. Astonished and confounded, she attempted some excuse, and hastily asked his pardon for her rudeness.

The judge had by this time, unobserved, taken from his pocket the beautiful shawl and folded it at full length one way and in a narrow form the other way, and it being of very fine texture appeared more like an elegant sash than like a valuable shawl. Then he arose with graceful dignity, and with a half smile he advanced a few steps toward the landlady, saying: "It is not my province to pardon but to judge, and I judge that you and I shall hereafter be friends—and I judge that you will, without hesitation, receive this as a present, if not as a pawn." So saying he gently, laid it over her shoulders, and across her arms saying:

"Take it madame, and do not attempt to return it, for it was purchased on purpose for a present to you."

She hastily retired in confusion, hardly knowing what she did, and took with her the shawl worth twelve dollars instead of ten.

And here are three parties who had each two good things. The landlady had a good shawl and good lesson to meditate upon—the gentlemen had a good dinner and a good joke to talk over—and the judge had good intentions in the joke, and good will and ability to follow up the lesson given.

Miscellaneous.

After the Battle.

How the Erie Field Appeared When the Smoke was Lifted. The Opening Speech of the Campaign Delivered at Renovo. Truly Good Democrats.

[From the Williamsport Gazette & Bulletin.]

ERIE, Sept. 10, 1875.—Bill and Sam did not come up here together; and they did not go away together to-day. Mr. Wallace took the special over the Philadelphia and Erie eastward this morning, while Mr. Randall goes into New York State for a day or two. The convention does not leave these two illustrious Democratic leaders where it found them; Wallace has been ignominiously slaughtered; he came here with a slate, and it has been smashed. Randall did not so much as have a slate as a favorite, who was Bigler. It is very well known that Randall cared no more for Bigler than for any one else who might be available—he simple believed the ex-governor to be the best man to defeat Wallace's candidate, Ross.

It did not take the politicians long, however, to discover that they were making bargains which they could not wholly consummate, and so on Tuesday they had a meeting and it was announced that they had buried the hatchet. It was a very wise stroke of policy, as with the mass of people it was very apt to carry the idea that whomsoever might be nominated they would not be defeated; the chances of neither of them were strong enough to encourage them to enter the fight in war paint and feathers, and so they divested themselves of these ornaments, and permitted the war to go on, each hoping for victory.

The result is, there is a plentiful supply of political corpses, and some politicians whose influance has gone below par. Among the corpses is William Bigler, who had aspirations for the vice-presidential nomination next year, but who was chiefly killed off by the bad management of his son. The fact, however, that his name went before the convention was the salvation of the Randall party; for while Bigler himself had at no time any possibility of a nomination, his strength was thereby held for use in Pershing's behalf when it became necessary. Young Bigler was requested earlier in the balloting to consent to the withdrawal of his father's name, but he was not sufficiently an experienced politician to see that it was impossible, and so long as there was hope he stood by with a filial firmness that was commendable. When a vote was lost, however, on the tenth ballot, he gave his permission, and the coup d'etat executed by the withdrawal of Bigler was worthy of the best efforts of that astute political trickster, Thurlow Weed. It served its purpose perfectly, and when Pershing had been rushed through on the eleventh ballot, and the members of the convention had got upon the chairs, and were cheering lustily over the result, Sam Randall, as cool as the north pole, walked in amongst them and received the congratulations of his friends. It was at this time that a delegate moved that a committee be appointed to escort Senator Wallace home!

WHERE THEY WENT.

When the masterly stroke of withdrawing Bigler had been accomplished, the Noyes supporters almost unanimously went to Pershing; they had no reason to love Wallace, who had fought the Clinton county candidate almost as earnestly as he had Bigler. Noyes' friends were to the last thoroughly true to him, and they had hope till the very last moment, but handsomely submitted to the inevitable, and struck where they could do the most good in dealing a blow to their common enemy. The strongest possible efforts were made to secure Noyes' votes for Ross, by offering the treasury nomination to Noyes, but he said he had come here as a candidate for governor and if he did not secure that prize he would have none. He did not propose to be put off so. All the Bigler votes went to Pershing, of course, and so did many of Barr's, and all but one of Piolett's.

There was a very general expression of satisfaction over the defeat which has overtaken the Democratic senator of this state, and it is marvellous how he has last stength since last year when he absolutely run the Pittsburg convention. It was at one time thought he had perfect control of the convention here, but it transpired that the election of his man Ellis to the temporary chairmanship had no fractional significance, and he was such a conspicuously wretched chairman that he saved the convention from the humiliation of being permanently presided over by him. Had he been in the chair the affair would have degenerated into a mob absolutely, and it had a very narrow escape as it was, on several occasions.

THE OTHER PART OF THE SLATE.

There was another part of the slate to be smashed when the nomination for treasurer came on. Wallace had selected with great care Mr. Orange Noble, of Erie, to put upon the ticket with Ross, and the fact that Ross did not get on, did not seem to interfere with the arrangement about Noble. Senator Joe Warcam was an original choice, but he had proven himself companionable with the bottle, and even Wallace's friends refused to support him. There was a great deal of opposition to Noble; nevertheless he had nearly twice as many votes on the first ballot as any other candidate. The danger of his nomination at that point was such that the chairman, who was opposed to him, declared the convention adjourned until ten o'clock in the morning, without even so much as putting it to a vote. He put on his fourteenth-century hat and with it cocked over his eye, stood in an attitude of defiance. He was finally coerced into resuming the chair by the sudden appearance of a gang of Philadelphia roughs upon the stage, at the head of whom was that illustrious Democratic politician, thief and prize fighters, Bill McMullin. It was the quickest way to save trouble, and then the delegates at half past two o'clock in the morning began to discuss the character of Orange Noble, and ventilate his business connections. As soon as the voting commenced again for the second ballot, Piolett was nominated, and run through in excellent style, garnering in the grangers' votes very successfully. On the third ballot it was simply a hurrah for Piolett. This was a clear defeat of all calculations of politicians, and there are many who will go through the campaign without any understanding as to why this Bradford county farmer was nominated. He will make a better candidate than treasurer.

THE PLATFORM MAKERS.

The platform is the work of General Wm. Brindle, so far as regards its financial plank. He came here early, and from the time the committee on resolutions was appointed he was one of the most industrious men about the place. After a great deal of excited discussion the committee adopted an anti-inflation plank by a vote of twenty-four or twenty-five, and it was understood that the committee was ready to report, and in the convention some of the hard money members insisted the report should be submitted. But Mr. Frank W. Hughes, the chairman of the committee, was an inflationist and refused to report. In this he was assisted by the president of the convention, also an inflationist, who, in his peculiarly forcibly manner, ordered an adjournment, and the committee had another session. At this meeting the hard moneyites took water, and the Ohio plank was adopted finally by a vote of twenty-seven to twenty-two. In this shape it was reported, and put through in spite of a great deal of fillibustering.

There are one or two conclusions to be reached from this. If by any possibility—and there is very small chance of it—Ohio and Pennsylvania should go Democratic this fall, it effectually kills Tilden as a presidential candidate; it kills any hard money Democrat, and Hendricks, or Pendleton, or Allen will be in the front. On the other hand, if they go Republican it will be the making of Tilden. If the Democrats are defeated in Ohio by a majority never so insignificant, the Pershing and Piolett ticket may as well be hung up, for it will be overwhelmed in a Republican majority such as the Keystone State has not given, except for Grant in 1872.

The Democrats have a hard money candidate on a soft money platform, which might seem to be a very fine arrangement, although it would be a little peculiar to any but Democrats. It is undeniable that the ticket is a good one—the platform is miserable weak, and is emphatically condemned by the best Democrats.

SOME GREAT AND GOOD DEMOCRATS.

From time immemorial—certainly since Democracy has had an existence—it has been justly proud of the number and eminence of its statesmen. Fortunately for the Democracy, its available working material of this sort has been confined to no locality, restricted by no geographical limits. The gifted Democratic statesmen and law-givers of the South led the country into rebellion. The graduates of the Tweed propaganda in New York gave the world lessons in finance. The noble army of patriots in Pennsylvania had taught all mankind honesty and probity, and in this Philadelphia has led all the rest. Wherever important work was to be well and intelligently done; wherever the interests of the state have found their way into a deliberative body, be it the legislature, constitutional convention or party gathering, there have the good men and true of the Philadelphia Democracy shone with a light beside which all others paled their ineffectual glare. What, for instance, would be thought of the aggregation which should come together as a Democratic zoological garden, and been lacking in its McMullin—"the alderman of the bloody Fourth," the retired fire laddie, the king bee of the rowdies and repeaters? Or, what would be said if Moore were not present to bully the chair and instruct everybody in sound doctrine? Then there is the elegant Mr. Dallas Sanders, with his veins full of blue blood, a graduate under McMullin's tuition, fast improving upon his tutor's instruction. The intelligent countenance of the gentle Mr. Killacky indicates that he is a man of parts and a gain to any deliberative body, and yet with all this bright galaxy on the floor, the bill would not be filled without the "Hon," Sam Josephs—straight descendant of one of the twelve tribes of Israel—to adorn a private box and direct his followers in the paths of decency, honesty and virtue beyond seduction. Like the gilded ball on a barber's pole, the "Hon." Al. Schofield surmounts and shines above them all, scattering about the scintillations of his genius and perfuming the very air as with the odor of sweet flowers. Spotless blossoms all—fair emblems of purity as known to the Philadelphia Democracy. J. H. L.

THE FIRST GUN—OPENING OF THE BATTLE—AN IMPROMPTU VOLLEY AT RENOVO—MIRACULOUS CONVERSION.

RENOVO, Sept. 10.—When the sun went down on this quiet mountain borough not one of its citizens had the slightest premonition of the distinguished honor to be lavished with reckless prodigality upon Renovo, before the gilded god should rise upon it again. Renovo has not been in the habit of playing a prominent part in the great campaigns the Commonwealth has known, and there were no coming events to foreshadow the new departure. This is the way it came about: At half-past seven o'clock the special train from Erie, bearing the homeward bound eastern delegates and strikers, pulled up here to afford the eminent statesmen an opportunity to feed and liquor up. The mad rush for the intoxicating tonic is hardly pertinent to what followed. Amid the hurry and flurry, a Republican on board the train conceived the brilliant idea of

on the spot. He started a call for "Souden on the currency," which was taken up spontaneously and soon swelled into a clamoring yell. When Col. Souden saw that a whole community, which had poured out about the train, would be left in sack cloth and ashes if he did not respond, he started to take the platform. At this juncture the Hon. Wm. Bennet, of Philadelphia, whose fame as has found its way into every nook and corner of the Commonwealth, let loose his inimitable cachenating apparatus and for a time damed up Souden's flow of oratory. "Call on me again," said Souden to a by-stander on the platform. "Souden! Souden!" rang out again and again, until the gallant Colonel at last yielded to parsistent persuasion, and reluctantly addressed the expectant multitude gathered by. He led off with the introductory remarks that have stood the Democracy of Pennsylvania in good stead for an opening chorus for the last forty years. He assured his hearers of

A SWEEPING VICTORY.

It could not be avoided. It must come. All the powers of darkness could not prevent it. For, first, the convention had put on its ticket two men whose duplicates had not yet been turned out of nature's workshop; and then they stood on a platform made with great care—and such a platform! In it there was a balm for every ill. Lumbago and hay fever would go down before it, as surely and as certainly as the Republican party of Pennsylvania would be crushed beneath its weight of excellent material and fine workmanship in November next. His heart swelled with pardonable emotion (he hoped it was pardonable) when he reflected upon what the Erie convention had done for the people of Pennsylvania. The platform declared that the administration of

had been a sin and a shame, too, and pledged the Democratic party to a full and complete reformation of every abuse. Did any of his hearers ever know the glorious old Democratic party to go back on its promises or prove unfaithful to its trusts? No! never. As in the past, so in the future, would that great party—once dead but now happily resurrected and renovated—establish fresh claims upon the popular gratitude by the certainty and celerity of its word. It would go to as soon as it got into the State treasury department. Did anybody doubt that the party which followed in the footsteps of Jefferson and Jackson would get into the treasury department in November next? For the credit of old Clinton he hoped not. But this was not all that would be accomplished by the universal catholicon prepared at Erie.

A GLOOMY PAST AND A BRILLIANT FUTURE.

In his own good county of Lehigh, in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and throughout the whole country, business was at a standstill. The busy hum of industry was hushed in the land. Ore pits were closed. The smelting furnaces no longer smelted the incandescent metal. The vaporous smoke no longer curled from the smoke stacks. Workshops were abandoned and the honest laborer stood idle by the wayside, begging for a fair day's work, for a fair day's wages. Commerical stagnation was on every hand. The sheriff was at every man's door, and the only escape was through the assignee or suicide. He charged upon the Republican party that it was responsible for all this, and more than the special train going east would give him time to tell.

A WONDERFUL PICTURE.

Surely the colonel had told enough. The depressing effect of this part of his speech was marked by misery in every countenance. Dark and gloomy forebodings of worse to come, and more of it, filled every breast. Stomachs that had just been brought from the supper table were convinced that they had not a square meal since the Republican party went into power. Brawny workman suddenly saw the gaunt wolf prowling about their homes. Pretty, babbling babes, aroused from their childish slumbers by the wild huzzas that greeted the Colonel's speech, begged in piteous tones for even the dry crust, that the Republican party had denied them from the hour of their birth. Staid, long-headed men, who had prophetic vision, peered through the veil that hides the future and looked upon the wreck and ruin of a once great commonwealth. By the strong light Colonel Souden had thrown upon the scene, they saw desolation and disaster hovering over the face of the Commonwealth in the day when the Republican party shall be unchecked in its mad career, when pestilence and famine shall blow their blighting breath upon the land, "and the bittern and the cormorant shall possess it."

A HEALING BALM.

The relief was as complete as the anguish. The speaker went to attentive listeners. The financial plank of the Erie platform would set all this straight, heal every balm and dry every falling tear. No one who listened to the first orator of the canvass could doubt that he felt every word that passed his lips, and yet 'twas not always thus. While the resolutions were under discussion in committee, he fought them inch by inch. He was the hardest of the hard money men. So in the convention. When Mr. Hughes of Schuylkill, chairman of the committee on resolutions, presented the report, Mr. Souden's honest indignation overcame him and he gave vent to his wrath in terms that could not be misunderstood. He regarded the doctrine of inflation as unconstitutional. He added, "I cannot concur, and never will, in the adoption of the resolution as submitted by the venerable chairman on the other side." If it was necessary that the Democratic party should abandon all its old financial land-marks in order to succeed, he hoped God might forbid its success.

REMARKABLE CONVERSION.

Viewed in the light of the record Colonel Souden made for himself at Erie, his conversion from the hardest of hard money men to a condition as soft as the softest, is miraculous. He stands out in bold relief, as one of the most remarkable and sudden conversions on record. This view of the matter was freely discussed here to-night, and regarded as one of the hopeful and encouraging signs of the times. Clinton county feels the unexpected honor of being chosen as the starting point in the campaign, and will do her duty in November.

Punctuality at Death.

Mr. Higgins was a very punctual man in all his transactions through life. He amassed a large property by uniting industry and punctuality; and at the advanced age of ninety years was resting quietly upon his bed, and calmly waiting to be called away. He had deliberately made almost every arrangment for his decease and burial. His pulse grew fainter, and the light of life seemed just flickering in its socket, when one of his sons observed:

"Father, you will probably live but a day or two, is it not well for you to name your bearers?"

"To be sure; my son," said the dying man, "it is well thought of, and I will do it now."

He gave a list of six, the usual number, and sank back exhausted upon his pillow. A gleam of thought passed over his withered face like a ray of light, and he rallied once more.

"My son, read me that list. Is the name of Mr. Wiggins there?"

"It is, my father."

"Then strike it off," said he emphatically, "for he was never punctual—was never anywhere in season—and he might hinder the procession a whole hour!

THE Republican conferrees of Mercer and Lawrence counties met at New Castle on Tuesday week, and after a few ballots, nominated F. H. Braggins, of Mercer, as their candidate for Senator. Mr. Braggins is now the editor of the Mercer Dispatch, and has had considerable experience as a clerk in the Legislature. He is a man of talent, capacity and integrity, and his nomination is one eminently fit to be made. There can be no doubt of his election, and we are glad to see a man so deserving of honor put forward for the position of Senator.

MAGNIFICENT OFFER!

Sewing Machines Given Away.—Subscribe for The Bellefonte Republican, the Liveliest and Best Paper in Centre Co. A Sixty Dollar Machine of the Best Make in the World for 30 Names.

A very liberal contract, which we have just completed with the Weed Sewing Machine Company, will enable us, we hope, to place their celebrated machines in many families throughout the country. So fine an opportunity to secure a first-class sewing machine seldom occurs. May we not expect the friends of this paper to make an earnest, united effort to extend greatly its circulation, and thus help to increase its influence? We will liberally reward those who work for us. Reader, can you not form a club in your neighborhood and secure this sewing machine premium? A few hours of well-directed effort will obtain it. Postmasters in the smaller towns and villages can, with a little thought and effort, easily send us the requisite number of names. Has the parsonage a sewing machine? If not, call upon a few ladies and gentlemen of the congregation. Tell them your plan and ask them to help you. In the congregation 30 names can, with little difficulty, be secured. Send us the $60 and we will forward for one year this paper to each of the 30 subscribers, which will pay them the full value of their subscriptions, and in addition, we will make a present, to any person you may designate, of a beautiful sixty dollar Sewing Machine. How easily a club may be formed in the Masonic or Odd Fellows or Temperance Society, or in the Grange? Is there not depending upon your society some poor widow to whom a sewing machine would be for years to come a blessing? Pass the subscription paper. Thirty persons subscribing for this journal at $2.00 each, will secure for themselves, without any extra charge, the paper for one year, and a most valuable present for some needy family. TRY IT, FRIENDS. DON'T WAIT! BEGIN THE WORK AT ONCE! Send us word that you have undertaken the formation of such a club.

Remember, the machines are warranted to be perfectly new, latest improved, and in perfect order.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13, 1875.

EDITOR REPUBLICAN:—Once more favoring fortune has compelled me to make a short visit to the motropolis. I take advantage of an hour or two of unoccupied time to send you an item or two.

Yesterday was quite an event in the moral vineyard of Gotham, as it marked the to their flocks, and the resumption of labor by the pulpiteers in their campaign against sin and satan. Great possibilities are open to them, for the field is large and open, and the call is loud.

Business of a general character is very dull here. Money on call, with U. S. bonds for security, is very cheap, but otherwise is very scarce. Business men all complain that there is scarcely anything doing, and even that little at unremunerative prices. Going up town in an omnibus, we heard a conversation between a member of a large jewelry and diamond house and a dealer in dry goods. Speaking of the dullness in business, Dry Goods said a great business had been done, but the city must rest. "In fact," said he "the giant must sleep." "But," said the other, "when the giant wakes, with whom will he trade? Will not all small dealers fall in the meantime?" "That," said Dry Goods, "depends on the financial policy of the Government. If we try to force resumption, and thus increase our foreign gold interest-bearing indebtedness, we have only just entered the trying era of the panic. Should a wiser policy prevail we may get under way again in the fall of '76."

THE PLATTDEUTSCH FESTIVAL

opened Monday with a large procession. It was indeed a tremendous affair. All the home costumes of the North Dutch countries were represented, as well as many of their legends. Some of the emblematic decorations were magnificent. Forty thousand people were present on Wednesday afternoon, when a real marriage, in every respect as they are celebrated in Germany, crowned the festivities of the day. It is wonderful what a prosperous people these Germans are. It is estimated that they now own the best half of New York, and that in twenty years three-fourths of the balance will be in their possession.

THE DOMESTIC FASHION OPENING.

A notable event in the fashion world was the Domestic Sewing Machine Company's Fashion Opening, on September 6th. The whole of the second floor of their magnificent building on Union Square, corner of 14th St. and Broadway, is used as a fashion parlor, and on opening day, and for sometime after is crowded by professional modistes, the bon-ton, and indeed, by all who desire to know in advance what are to be the prevailing modes for the coming season, or in other words, how our woman will dress. I shall not undertake any detailed description, because, first, I am not au fait in the nomenclature of fashions and dresses; and, secondly, I have not the time to write, nor you the room to publish, so long an article as it would necessarily be. But I must add what I heard everyone in the parlors and on the cars say: "It was the most stylish and successful fashion opening ever given in New York." Within the last seven years, we have had in use in our family six of the different leading sewing machines, and they have all finally given away before the superior qualities of the Domestic. In fact, wife says that, "with domestic fashions and a Domestic machine, I have no need of a seamstress, and consequently can apply that expenditure to that better style of dressing, which (snarl at it as you may) all men admire." For very many kind attentions, we were much indebted to the bland and entertaining treasurer of the company, Mr. Charles Taylor, and also to Mr. Madden, who presides over the fashion department.

Among the novelties taking place this week here are a series of grand gift excursions on board the Plymouth Rock, the floating palace built by the late unlamented Jim Fisk.

Gilmore's Concert Garden is a great attraction. From five to ten thousand people assemble there nightly to enjoy the scenery and music. The two greatest living cornet players—Arbuckle and Levy perform some of their best selections each night. The evening we were there was a grand one, the orchestra giving among others the overtures to Der Freischutz and William Tell; while Levy gave the "Inflammatus" from Stobat Moter; and as encore "The Last Rose of Summer." Mr. Arbuckle gave "Ave Non's Stella," and was recalled twice, giving first "The Old Folks at Home," and second "Home. Sweet Home." Opinion is much divided as to which of these is the superior performer. My opinion is that Levy excels in snap and brilliancy as much as does Arbuckle in the poetry and pathos of music.

The question of rapid transit, which has agitated New York so long, seems satisfactorily settled by the decision of Gov. Tilden's commissioners in favor of elevated railways—the main one being an extension of what is known as the Greenwich Street Railway.

Should any of your readers go to New York and have a day to spare, they cannot use it to better advantage than by a sail on the sound up to New Haven, the leading city of the Nutmeg State. New Haven is justly proud of Yale College, as also of her manufacturing establishments, and her Elm avenue on College Green is unrivalled in its way in this country, while many travelers think Berlin's celebrated Under Den Linden does not excel it.

Yours,
WANDERER.

MEETING OF THE VETERAN CLUB.—According to previous announcement, the second annual meeting of this organization was held in Stuart's woods, at Boalsburg, on Friday Sept. 17, 1875.

The unfavorable appearance of the weather during the early morning deterred many soldiers, and more visitors, living at a distance, from making a start, but those who understood that the motto of the club is "No postponement on account of weather," made their preparations despite the lowering sky, and at an early hour the roads leading to Boalsburg were enlivened by the passage of many well filled vehicles. Shortly before the appointed hour, the clouds broke away, and during the day the weather, though rather cool, continued pleasant.

A little after 11, A. M. the assembled veterans, numbering about two hundred, marshalled by Col. R. McFarlane, formed in line at the Diamond, and marched to the woods, preceded by the Boalsburg Band, and the Eagle Works Drum Corps. On arriving at the woods the meeting was called to order by Gen. James A. Beaver, President of the Club, and opened with prayer by Rev. Wm. J. Gibson, late Chaplain of the 45th P. V. The address of welcome was then delivered by Rev. A. J. Hartsock, of Boalsburg, and appropriately responded to by Gen. Beaver, on behalf of the club.

The constitution and by-laws were then read by the Secretary, also the minutes of the last years meeting. The minutes were approved and ordered to be recorded. On motion a committee on nominations was appointed, consisting of Col. Robert McFarlane, 148th; Maj. P. B. Wilson, 2d cav; George G. Tate, 110th; and George Gill, 93d. The meeting then adjourned to meet at signal by the band.

At about 1.30 P. M. the club reassembled in front of the speakers' stand. Maj. Wilson, from the committee on nominations, reported the following list of officers for the ensuing year, who were unanimously elected:

PRESIDENT—Gen. James A. Beaver, 148th P. V
VICE PRESIDENT—Maj. James Armor, war of 1812.
SECRETARY.—D. S. Keller, 148th P. V.
TREASURER.—Cap. Austin Curtin, 45th P. V.; and as additional members of the Ex. Committee.
Col. Jas. T. Stuart, 49th P. V.
George G. Tate, 116th P. V.
John Hamilton, 1st Pa. Cav.
Lewis C. Bullock, 45th P. V.

Cap. John Hamilton, Lieut. W. P. Shoop, of the 49th P.V.; and Sergt. W. H. Shultz, of the 148th; were appointed a committee to receive invitations, and to select a place for next year's meeting.

The President then introduced as the orator of the day, Hon. A. G. Curtin, the war Governor, who for nearly an hour, held the audience entranced by one of his brilliant efforts. The Governor reviewed the events of the struggle which had given rise to reunions of this character, extolled the sacrifices and heroism of the dead and the living, and pointed to the living evidences that their efforts were not in vain. He showed that the good had not been unmindful of its debt of gratitude, and gave a description of the comfortable, almost luxurious, homes for disabled soldiers, provided by the general government, of Dayton, Augusta, Hamilton, and other places, which far excel any institutions, of similar character in the old world. The fostering care of Pennsylvania for the children of her dead warriors, as exemplified in her "schools for soldiers' orphans," received its fitting tribute. Passing from grave to gay, the Governor spoke of the services of "his army," as he delighted to call the "emergency men." The toils and marches, the forages and raids, (upon hen-roosts and the like) were faithfully delineated. The speaker declared it was his proudest boast that "his army" came back whole and safe. No fragments about them; crutches and bandages were out of their line. Again passing easily from badinage to sober realities, the speaker paid a fitting tribute to the "emergency men." They did their duty as the opportunity came. They did it well, no man can do more. An eloquent and feeling acknowledgment of Woman's work during the war, and of Woman's part in the struggle of to-day, closed the oration.

Loud calls were made for a speech from Gen. Beaver, who, in turn, insisted upon the "regular order," and as usual carried his point.

The committee on grounds for next year's meeting, reported a resolution recommending "Taylor's woods," at the Old Fort in Potter township, which was adopted. The 17th of Sept., 1876, falling on Sunday, it was decided to hold the meeting on Saturday, the 16th.

The report of the Treasurer for the year just ended, showing a balance in hand of $12.70, was read and approved.

Maj. Cheesman, from the committee on badges, reported in favor of the silk badge used on the occasion of the visit to Williamsport. The report was adopted, and the committee were directed to have a sufficient number prepared prior to the next meeting.

After passing votes of thanks to the citizens of Boalsburg and vicinity for their generous hospitality, and to the band for the excellent music discoursed, there being no further business on hand, the Club adjourned to meet Saturday, Sept., 1876, at Taylor's Woods Old Fort.

During the day the roll was increased to 118 members. By the time meetings have been held in the different parts of the county, it is hoped that our object of the Club, viz., to enroll every honorably—discharged soldier and sailor resident within the county on the membership book will be accomplished.

The town of Boalsburg was handsomely decorated. A beautiful arch bearing the inscription, "Welcome," was sprung at one side of the Diamond, and from nearly, if not quite, every house in town waved flags, evergreens, and the familiar corps-marks now so dear to the heart of every true soldier.

We had intended to speak of the hospitality of the good people of the town and neighborhood, but "words fail before the eloquence of silence." Suffice it to say, the entertainment was in true Pennsvalley order, and had there been thousands instead of hundreds of hungry veterans, no one would have gone away unsatisfied. The welcome was a genial, cordial, hearty one. You felt it in every grasp of the hand, you saw it in every beaming face, you heard it in every kindly greeting. When the meeting adjourned, the veterans' badge ensured him a cordial reception in every house.

Such meetings serve to rekindle anew the fires of patriotism, and are good for both veteran and civilian. May all our reunions prove as pleasant as this.

D. S. KELLER,
Secretary.

NOW AND THEN.—They lingered at the gate, says an exchange, until he could finish that last remark, and she toyed with her fan, while her eyes were looking down from beneath a jaunty hat, that only partially shaded her face from the light of the silvery moon.

He stood gracefully on the outside, with one hand resting on the gate-post and the other tracing unintelligible hieroglyphics on the panels. They were looking very sentimental, and neither spoke for some minutes, until she broke silence in a sweet musical voice:

"And you will always think as you do now, George?"

"Ever, dearest; your image is impressed upon my heart so indelibly that nothing can ever efface it. Tell me, Julia, loveliest of your sex, that I have a right to wear it there."

"Oh, you men are so deceitful," she answered, coquetishly.

"True, Julia, men are deceitful," he said, drawing a little nearer to her and insinuating himself inside the gate, "but who, darling, could deceive you?"

"And if I were to die, George, wouldn't you find some one else you could love as well?"

"Never, never. No one could ever fill your place in my heart."

"Oh, quit now. That ain't right," she murmured as she made a feint to remove his arm from around her waist.

"Let me hold you to my heart," he whispered passionately, "until you have consented to be mine," and he drew her nearer to him and held her tightly until he obtained the coveted boon.

It seemed but yesterday since our weary footsteps interrupted that touching little scene, but when we passed near the same locality at an early hour yesterday morning, ere the moon and stars had paled, we heard a gentle voice exclaim:

"No, sir; you stayed out this long, and you may just as well make a night of it. I'll teach you to stay at the lodge until three o'clock in the morning, and then come fooling around my door to worry me and wake the baby. Now take that and sleep on it."

It seemed but yesterday, that little scene at the gate, but when we accidentally became a witness to this latter scene, we remember it had been longer."

——We visited the public schools on Thursday last, and found them in apple-pie order, teachers and students being over head and ears in the work of education. We predict a most successful year for our public schools.

——To-morrow the Centre county Grangers will hold their annual reunion pic-nic on the fair grounds, near this place. If the day is pleasant, an immense crowd will be present, and we will insure them a delightful time, if the politicians will keep away, and not pester them to death.

——An exchange says that a conscientious farmer in Lewistown, Maine, wiped the mud from his cart wheels before permitting his load of hay to be weighed. But such men are never sent to the Legislature.

——If a Democratic Burgess, during four months of his maladministration, can add two thousand dollars expenses to the Centre county taxes, how much will be added to the State expenses, if a Democratic Governor should be elected for four years. Tax-payers, consider.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

St. Nicholas For October

CLOSES the second volume of this charming magazine, and brings to its readers some thirty interesting articles; the majority of them beautifully illustrated. The frontispiece is a very fine wood-cut by Granville Perkins, representing a battle at sea between the American frigate, "Essex," and an English ship, "Phoebe," during the war of 1812, which contest is also described in the opening article. The latter is devoted to a very clear and interesting review of the cruise of Captain David Porter's vessel, on board of which our late rear-Admiral Farragut first distinguished himself for his bravery when a boy of twelve.

Ella Rodman Church contributes an article entitled "Some Queer Animals," and describing the Dragon, Harpy, Basilisk, Phœnix, Roc, and other similar mythological creatures.

Following close upon this is a very natural, as well as amusing, story by Mrs. Sarah Winter Kellogg, under the title of "How It Went"—a very suggestive one when applied, as we discover it to be, to the manner in which a winter's earnings glided from the hands and pockets of two merry youngsters. We also find among the stories a quaint little fable by Mrs. Diaz, another amusing episode in the fortunes of Lucretia P. Hale's comical "Petrekin" family, and the capital story of "Jenny Paine's Hat," by Mrs. Branch.

Descriptive articles, also, are not lacking, and if the young reader prefer solid information to fiction, he will find something to his taste in the well-illustrated description of "The Frigate-Bird," and of a hunt for horses on the Western plains. "Lord Cornwallis's Day," too, is an interesting account of a somewhat novel celebration in a Massachusetts village of an anniversary of that general's famous surrender. The poetry of the number is finished by "H. H.," Edgar Fawcett, Fanny Percival, Mary A. Lathbury and Mrs. Carney, author of "Little Drops of Water," and "Deal Gently with the Erring."

The close of the two serials will no doubt be somewhat unwelcome to the readers of the magazine, to whom "The Young Surveyor" and the "Eight Cousins" must have come to seem like real personages. But the satisfactory and pleasant ending of each story will do much to lessen the sense of loss at parting company with these old friends. "Jack" is particularly bright this month, and we beg good people who want to laugh to read his "Crooked Story."

THE REPUBLIC Magazine for September has been received. Its opening article "Can the Nation trust the Democratic party?" clearly indicates that there has been no change in Democracy; that what it was prior to war, during its prosecution, and throughout the period of reconstruction, it is to-day. The evidence submitted, consisting of extracts from public papers, votes in Congess on important measures, Confederate opinions of Democracy, make the article a strong one, invaluable to private citizens and especially to politicians. "Taking a Census," presents the approved systems adopted by several States. "Education in Alabama;" "New State Constitutions;" "Panic Faith;" "Taxes paid by national Banks." "The New National Life" are care fully prepared, and contain much of general interest. The Republic should be in the hands of every citizen. Only $2.00 a year Send to the Republic Publishing Co., Washington, D. C.

——It was quite in the eternal fitness of things that Miss Betsy Straw, of Warner, should die of hay fever. The poor old lady was accused of being 101 years old, and had no means of proving that she wasn't. [Chances to say something about grass-widow and straw-burying party, and to mention that if all flesh is grass she is gone to meat, are willfully overlooked on account of pecuniary inducements to overlook them.]

Bellefonte Markets.

BELLEFONTE, Sept. 22, 1875.

In the general merchandise trade we have little new to offer. Prints are still the leading item of domestic goods, and some of our merchants are offering the best brands at 8 cents per yard, which is not more than cost, and which, of course, is intended to attract buyers of other articles.

WHEAT—The wheat market has somewhat improved during the last fortnight, and we advance prices five cents per bushel. We note a remarkable feature in the wheat market, and that is, wheat last week was quoted a shade higher in Pittsburgh than it was in Philadelphia or Baltimore. There is some inquiry also for car lots, and the supply is quite short of the demand, which will be amply supplied as soon as farmers get done seeding. There is a large crop in the county which we hope farmers will be able to market at remunerative prices.

CORN—The demand for corn is limited—no demand except in the shape of chop.

RYE—No inquiry.

OATS—The supply of oats is in excess of the demand. The mills are quite full and there is none wanted for shipping.

QUINTUPLE PICTURE of the CENTENNIAL

BIRD'S-EYE VIEW OF THE CENTENNIAL GROUNDS.

Mr. Thomas Hunter, of Philadelphia, whose admirable series of Lithographs has done so much towards awakening interest in our National Celebration, has published a picture containing the five principal buildings on one sheet, also a Bird's-eye View of Fairmount Park with the buildings in the foreground. Nothing could more fully supply the information sought by those interested. The Quintuple represents all the buildings on a large scale, with sufficient detail to convey to the mind some of their magnificent proportions. The BIRD'S-EYE VIEW is by far the most faithful representations of the Park yet printed. Every building whose plan and position have been determined, every ravine, fountain, and tree, is correctly drawn.

These pictures are indorsed by the Centennial Board of Finance, who afforded the publisher every facility to make them accurate, and who have distributed them largely in every civilized country on the globe. Aside from their merit as works of art, their interest now in prospects of the Celebration, and as mementos when that event is over, entitles them to a place in every household.

Mr. Hunter's list now comprises the following: 1, Art Gallery; 2, Main Building; 3, Horticultural Hall; 4, Machinery Hall; 5, Agricultural Hall; 6, Bird's-Eye View; 7, double (Nos. 1 and 2 on a sheet); 8, triple (Nos. 1, 2, and 3 on a sheet); 9, Quintuple (Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5 on a sheet). All uniform price, 50 cents each. Sent free by mail, securely packed. Prices in quantities, $4 00 per dozen, and 40 cents for postage; $30 00 per hundred; $200 00 per thousand; and less in larger quantities. Sent C. O. D. by express or on money order.

Miscellaneous.

TASTELESS MEDICINES.

A prominent New York physician lately complained to DUNDAS DICK & CO. about their Sandalwood Oil Capsules, stating that sometimes they cured miraculously, but that a patient of his had taken them without effect. On being informed that several imitations were sold, he inquired and found his patient had not been taking DUNDAS DICK & CO'S.

What happened to this physician may have happened to others, and DUNDAS DICK & CO. take this method of protecting physicians, druggists and themselves, and preventing Oil of Sandalwood from coming into disrepute.

PHYSICIANS who once prescribe the Capsules will continue to do so, for they contain the Pure Oil in the best and cheapest form.

DUNDAS DICK & CO. use more Oil of Sandalwood than all the Wholesale and Retail Druggists and Perfumers in the United States combined, and this is the sole reason why the pure oil is sold Cheaper in their Capsules than in any other form.

OIL OF SANDALWOOD is fast superseding every other remedy, sixty Capsules only being required to insure a safe and certain cure in six or eight days. From no other medicine can this result be had.

DUNDAS DICK & CO.'S SOFT CAPSULES solve the problem, long considered by eminent physicians, of how to avoid the nausea and disgust experienced in swallowing, which are well known to detract from, if not destroy, the good effects of many valuable remedies.

Soft Capsules are put up in tin-foil and neat boxes, thirty in each, and are the only Capsules prescribed by physicians.

Tasteless Medicines.—Castor Oil and many other nauseous medicines can be taken easily and safely in Dundas Dick & Co's Soft Capsules. No taste. No smell.

☞ These were the only Capsules admitted to the last Paris Exposition.

Send for circular to 35 Wooster Street, N. Y.

MEDICAL.

CHEROKEE REMEDY.

THE GREAT INDIAN DIURETIC.

INFINITELY SUPERIOR TO BUCHU.

Nine tenths of the human family suffer, directly or indirectly, at one time or other, from diseases or irregularities of the generative system, while the victims of indiscretion, and of quack treatment, are comparatively numerous.

The idea that patients cannot treat themselves successfully in these cases, has long ago been exploded. A good and reliable medicine, prepared by an experienced physician, from the original Indian Recipe, that is guaranteed to effect a can be as safely relied upon as the prescription of the most skillful practitioner. Such a medicine is the celebrated

CHEROKEE REMEDY.

Full directions accompany each bottle, and if they are carefully followed, a quick and permanent cure is guarranteed. Price $2.00 per bottle.

THE CHEROKEE INJECTION, should always be used in conjunction with the Remedy for both incipient and obstinate cases of Gonorrhœa. Price $2.00 per bottle.

CHEROKEE CURE

for seminal weakness (spermatorrhœa), is a simple vegetable medicine that was used for many years in the practice of the physician who first gave the remedy to the public. It has effected cures that would scarcely be credited except on ocular evidence of the fact. Full directions, with pamphlet containing all particulars of symptoms, treatment, &c., accompany each bottle. Price $2.00 per bottle. Sold everywhere.

CHEROKEE PILLS.

These Pill are prepared expressly for the cure of those irregularities to which ladies are subject, and will be found safe, reliable and effectual, for the cure of Suppression, Green Sickness, Pain in the Back, Hysteria, Sick Headache, &c., &c. Price $1.00 per box.

Heimstreet's Hair Restorative,

OR INIMITABLE HAIR COLORING.

NOT A DYE.—Heimstreet's "Hair Coloring is not a Dye, and its operation is not by any chemical effect, but by a natural restoration of the glands, thus giving the hair the color it originally had.

NATURALNESS.—When the hair is dyed, its color is leaden hued and unnatural, but when restored by HEIMSTREET'S HAIR COLORING, its appearance is so perfectly natural that no one can detect the use of any Restorative.

STAINLESS.—While the Restorative acts promptly on the hair, it leaves no stain or mark whatever on the skin. It is composed of ingredients that form a perfect dressing as well as a coloring, so that no oils, &c., are necessary.

THIS MOST EFFECTIVE of all the Hair Restorers is for sale by all druggists at 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle. Numerous certificates from those who have used it are in the possession of the proprietors.

PARK'S BALSAM

OR

WILD CHERRY AND TAR.

BALSAM.—Nothing is more soothing to the irritated membranes than the pure BALSAMS of which this medicine is composed.

WILD CHERRY.—The true bark of Wild Cherry is an unfailing specific for all throat and pectorial diseases.

TAR.—The wonderful healing properties of Tar when united with the other ingredients, render PARK'S BALSAM the most efficient Cough Medicine ever offered to the public.

CONSUMPTION.—The many cases of Consumption that have been cured justify us in the assertion that it is the very best medicine for that disease ever discovered.

CERTIFICATES OF CURES.

STEPHEN FISK, of New York, says his daughter had consumption, and terbucles had formed in her lungs. He was induced to try Park's Balsam, which effected a speedy cure.

T. EDWARD FLEET, of Brooklyn says, I think it is the best medicine for affections of the lungs I ever used.

G. S. FANCHER, of New York says, I feel fully persuaded that Park's Balsam has saved my life.

We have in our possession hundreds of certificates from others, and all of the same cheering import. Price 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by druggists and dealers everywhere.

EGYPTIAN

Rat and Vermin Destroyer

FOR EXTERMINATING RATS, MICE, WATER BUGS, ROUCHES, RED ANTS, &c.

STRENGTH.—When a Rat tastes the Egyptian Destroyer, his death warrant is signed, sure. It cannot fail to kill. It also creates great thirst, and the rat will search for water out of doors, and not die in his hole, to cause a stench that cannot be got out.

ATTRACTIVENESS.—Rats are the shrewdest of vermin. It is hard to get them to eat poison. An ingredient in the Egyption Destroyer is a perfect bait, and they are attracted rather than freightened be it. "Rats (not children) cry for it.

KEEPING SOFT.—People know how the ordinary Rat Pastes dry up and become useless, causing annoyance and loss. The Egyptian Destroyer is fully warranted to keep soft, fresh and effective in any climate for years.

SURE DEATH.—The Egyptian Destroyer kills every time. Hundreds of unsolicited testimonials are now in the hands of the proprietors, substantiating its great merits as the best preparation for destroying Vermin in the world. Be sure and ask for the "Egyptian," and take no other.

Put up in large glass bottles. Price, 25 cts. Sold by Druggists everywhere.

LESSON XXXIX.

SEPTEMBER 26, 1875.

REVIEW—CHRIST REJECTED.

JOHN xi. 47-53.

47 Then gathered the chief priests and the Pharisees a council, and said, What do we? for this man doeth many miracles.

48 If we let him thus alone, all men will believe on him: and the Romans shall come and take away both our place and nation.

49 And one of them named Caiaphas, being the high priest that same year, said unto them, Ye know nothing at all,

50 Nor consider that it is expedient for us, that one man should die for the people, and that the whole nation perish not.

51 And this spake he not of himself; but being high priest that year, he prophesied that Jesus should die for that nation;

52 And not for that nation only, but that he should also gather together in one the children of God that were scattered abroad.

53 Then from that day forth they took council together for to put him to death.

COMMIT TO MEMORY, vs. 47, 48.

PARALLEL PASSAGES.—Balaam, Num. xxiv. 15-19; Acts, xx. 1.

SCRIPTURE READINGS.—With vs. 47, 48, read Ps. ii. 2; with v. 49, read Acts iv. 6; with v. 50, read Isa. xlix. 6; with vs. 51, 52, read Matt. xx. 28; with v. 53, read Matt. xxvi. 3, 4, and 1 Kings xix. 4.

GOLDEN TEXT.—He is despised and rejected of men; a man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief.—Isa. liii. 3.

CENTRAL TRUTH. Christ came unto his own, nd his own received him not.

The miracles of Jesus not only attracted notice, impressed the people and showed his tender and compassionate nature, but they formed a foundation for the belief in him as the Messiah. The raising of Lazarus made a great impression. It was a remarkable miracle in itself. The social position of Lazarus gave it some interest. The Jews, i. e., the party opposed to Christ, were the spectators of it; they could not challenge the evidence of it. It was done in the neighborhood of Jerusalem, and so attracted unusual notice. It decided many waverers and confirmed the well disposed towards Jesus. Hence the early and decisive movement it occasioned among the Jewish leaders, and of which our lesson gives the account. The interest of the lesson is in this, that it unfolds the alleged grounds of the Hebrew leaders' rejection of Jesus, and shows that he did not suffer death in a moment of spasmodic popular fury, but as the result of premeditated malice, and deliberate conspiracy. The nation of the Jews, by its chiefs and by its common people, crucified him (Acts ii. 23).

The ruling body of the Jews, not including the Roman power, was a council of seventy (one) men, twenty-three making a quorum. The name, Sanhedrim, is Greek, and therefore comparatively modern among the Jews. The council, though claimed to be in succession to that of Numbers xi. 16, 17, probably took shape after the return of the captivity. It was composed of priests, scribes or lawyers, and elders, and its number is alleged (not proved) to have been seventy-one (the seventy according to Moses' example, the one for Moses himself). Some allege that seventy-two was the proper number of the elders. Its president was often the High Priest, as in the condemnation of Jesus (Matt. xxvi. 63). It sat in a hall of its own, sometimes at the High Priest's house (Matt. xxvi. 3, 4), had a vice-president, and sat in a semi-circle in front of these officers. Faulty tribes, prophets or priests were tried by this court. Hence it was summoned to deal with Jesus. He was treated as a false prophet. So were Peter, John, Stephen and Paul, at a later time. Jewish authorities declare that the death-power was withdrawn from this court forty years before the fall of Jerusalem, an unintentional corroboration of John xviii. 31.

The prime movers in collecting this meeting were chief (leading) priests and Pharisees. They expressed alarm at their own helplessness and inactivity, and the growing popularity of Jesus. 'This man doeth many miracles.' Out of their own mouths they are condemned. Are they true miracles? Then why do ye not believe in him? How does he effect them? Are they false? Then why not expose him? To the council an argument is urged which deserves notice. (v. 48). 'The Romans will come,' etc. Why, they were there! Yes, but in no great force, only enough to keep the country quiet, not in overwhelming numbers as afterwards. Their idea was, or they affected to believe, for they were not sincere, that Jesus was setting himself up as a head and popular leader, and that his followers were becoming sufficiently numerous to attract Roman notice and to look like a national revolt, which would provoke their conquerors utterly to root them out ('take away,' see Matt. xxiv. 39), and destroy whatever life the nation still retained. But he disclaimed all kingly power (Luke xii. 14). And if he wrought miracles, what fear could there be even of the Romans? It is a good specimen of the effort to evade evil by sin. It hastens the calamity it was meant to avert. Not now but later, and in punishment from God for this sin, the Romans did this very thing effectually.

Here Caiaphas, who had long been High Priest, and was so then (in that year, v. 49, there was much political changing of this official now), made an argument in a haughty, high-priestly, arrogant style. (He was a Sadducee, probably son-in-law of Annas, greatly in favor of public tranquility, 'things as they were.') 'Ye know nothing at all.' It rebukes the slowness and lack of sagacity of his compeers, particularly rival Pharisees, he being a Sadducee (see Acts v. 17). It was probably meant to forestal objection, thus, 'You say it is hard to make away with this man, who may not be a traitor or mean any evil. But do ye not see the evil of which he may be the occasion? Better that he be cut off than the whole nation. It is expedient for us to make away with him.'

There are two kinds of expediency. That which submits to some evil (not moral) for a great good. It is expedient to cut off a hand to save the life. Of two such evils we are to choose the less; of two moral evils choose neither. That which does evil that good may come. Caiaphas (and priests generally) favored this. He had no true idea of that atonement which [illegible] words unconsciously describe. He was simply arguing his case and carrying his point, and he was stimulated in his zeal by his being high priest, and afraid of the power slipping from his and his fellows' hands, in consequence of the miracles of this Jesus who assailed the party so fearlessly. It was noble in Christ to give. It was base to sell an innocent life for self-preservation. It was wrong to do any injustice even for a national object. We have the Evangelist's comments on his words. The events, which fell out quite differently from his view of them, put a new meaning into words which he uttered unwittingly. Jesus did die for the nation in a deeper sense than he knew, ay! in a wider sense, too, for he contemplated also all 'the children of God scattered abroad,' all the true Isreal, Jews and Gentiles.

It is a most natural reflection from the point of time and of view from which John wrote. It is a piece of that solemn irony which meets us in so many cases of retributive justice. It is of the same order as Balaam's prophecy; with the reed, the robe, the crown and the inscription on Christ's cross. Truly he was king, "the King of the Jews."

And his counsel prevailed. They resolved from that time forth to watch the first opportunity to compass the death of Jesus, and in fact required that his whereabouts should be reported. He was practically an outlaw from that day. What Caiaphas uttered in ignorance, and in selfish and unprincipled policy, let us look at it as John could see it. The innocent had died for the guilty. One man suffered to save a nation, and not a nation only, but the "whole family named after" him, then and thereafter to be, Christians. This is the great "mystery of goodliness." This is the "mystery that had been hid from the ages." Jesus reconciles the Jews and Gentiles, is the propitiation for the sins of the whole world, no exception being made against any man of any race, or color, age or clime. He gathers into one (mystical) body all the children of God, he the head, they the members (Eph. ii. 13, 14). He is "in the midst" not only of the thieves on the cross, but of all history, of all goodness, of all good men, of the whole family in heaven and in earth.

Yet the Jews' council deliberately rejected him. So do men still and under like influences. They could not keep power and own Jesus. The pleasure seeker cannot indulge and own Christ. The unscrupulous politician, the tricky lawyer, the dishonest merchant cannot own Christ and prosecute his objects. So to gain his points he puts him aside and in the end loses himself.

There is indeed a baseness lower even than this, when men confess him, call him master, like Judas, and kiss him, but their hearts go after their covetousness. Which is worse before God, the audacity or the hypocrisy, we need not inquire. Either is soul-destroying.

We may learn from this lesson:

1. How little power miracles by themselves have to turn men to the Lord. From Lazarus' grave to the council-chamber! See the words of Christ (Luke xvi. 31). So it is now. More evidence is not the want of the world.

II. How falsely men reason when they are pleasing themselves. They slay Jesus to keep things quiet, and his blood is on them and on their children in an awful manner. It is never expedient to wrong.

III. God has all men's hearts in his hands, and makes the ways of the wicked serve his ends.

IV. It is awful to reject Christ, even though high authority and church councils aprove of it.

SUGGESTIVE TOPICS.—The state of public feeling—occasion of it—significance of this miracle—the council—name—number—duties—antiquity—by whom called—addressed—Caiaphas' office—sect—tone—argument—error—the evangelist's reflection upon it—parallel cases—underlying truth—double work of Jesus—meaning of "gather"—conclusion reached—criminality of it—folly of it—imitations of it and further lessons to us.

Miscellaneous.

It Was a Bee.

Any one passing along Howard street, just before noon, yesterday, would have seen him lying under one of the shade trees in his yard, a pillow under his head, his feet on a bench, and a magazine in his hands. He looked the picture of comfort and contentment, and the women who were going along with pull-back dresses on sighed and wished they were men.

The great City Hall bell struck the hour of noon. The deep-toned echoes floated out on the still summer air and touched a tender chord in the Howard street man's heart. The echoes sounded to him like funeral whispers—like the whispers of the night wind sighing through the grand old wilderness.

"Oh! solemn bell!" he said. "Oh! sad solemn ——!"

That was all he said about the bell. A bumble bee settled down on him to look for sugar, and as he turned partly over he gave the bee a rub. It is a bad thing to rub any kind of a bee. He feels insulted and gets annoyed at things which a mud turtle or a dove would pass by without a thought. The echoes of the bell were just dying away when the Howard street man got up. He got up like a man in a hurry. He went away from there. He didn't meander—he went like a rocket. Something seemed to all him. He made a line for the house, went up the steps at a bound, and as his wife asked him the cause of his hast, he replied:

"Tunder—oop! hoop!"

"Is this house on fire?" she asked, as he tore around the parlor and upset things.

"House be—oop! Lordy!" he answered, as he made a circle of the room and dashed into the hall.

The dog rushed after him, the wife rushed after the dog, and the man bounded out of the house.

"Are you crazy, Robert?" shrieked his wife as she beheld him pounding his legs with his new silk hat.

Two or three boys ran from the street, a strange dog came in and got up a fight, and all things conspired to make a lively time.

"He's got the colic!" yelled one of the boys.

"Or the tremers!" shouted another.

"See that hat!" called a third.

"Boys, go out of here!" whispered the panting man as he stopped using his hat.

They went out, and as they went out, and as he limped into the house, his tearful wife asked:

"Now, then will you tell me what has happened?"

"No, I won't!" he shouted, and he didn't.

She fell into hysterics at the thought that he had used his brain too much, and suddenly became crazed, and he went down to the drug store, and applied arnica to the spot, and informed the drug clerk that eleven thousand of the largest kind of bumble bees settled right down on him in a body.—Detroit Free Press.

THE Republican State ticket in New York is the strongest, personally, ever presented to the people of that State, Frederick W. Seward, for Secretary of State, and F. E. Spinner, for Comptroller, are men of national reputation and General Merritt, nominated for Treasurer, won a grand reputation for gallantry as a dashing cavalry officer during the war. He has been a Liberal Republican since 1872, and his nomination is a token that the men of that organization have returned to their first love. If success depends upon presenting the best men for office, the Republicans of New York have assured their triumph by the selection of candidates they have made. That they will succeed we will not permit ourselves to doubt.

THE Erie platform is a very severe dose for the hard money papers, and, irrespective of party, they are denouncing it in every direction. The New York "World" gives it the lie in stating that the Republican administration has not contracted the currency.

The happiest moments in a woman's life are when she is making her wedding garments; the saddest, when her husband comes home late at night and yells to her from the front steps to throw him out some key-holes, assorted sizes.—Detroit Free Press.

VEGETINE

Purifies the Blood, Renovates and Invigorates the Whole System.

Its Medical Properties are

ALTERATIVE, TONIC, SOLVENT, AND DIURETIC.

VEGETINE is made exclusively from the juices of carefully selected barks, roots and herbs, and so strongly concentrated that it will effectually eradicate from the system every tint of SCROFULA, SCROFULOUS HUMOR, TUMORS, CANCER, CANCEROUS HUMOR, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, SYPHILITIC DISEASES, CANKER, FAINTNESS AT THE STOMACH, and all diseases that arise from impure blood. SCIATICA, INFLAMATORY and CHRONIC RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, GOUT AND SPINAL COMPLAINTS, can only be effectually cured through the blood.

For ULCERS and ERUPTIVE DISEASES of the Skin, Pustules, Pimples, Blotches, Boils, Tetter, Scaldhead and Ringworm, VEGETINE has never failed to effect a permanent cure.

For PAINS IN THE BACK, KIDNEY COMPLAINTS, DROPSY, FEMALE WEAKNESS, LEUCORRHŒA, arising from internal ulceration, and uterine diseases and GENERAL DEBILITY, Vegetine acts directly upon the causes of these complaints. It invigorates and strengthens the whole system, acts upon the secretive organs, allays inflammation, cures ulceration and regulates the bowels.

For CATARRH, DYSPEPSIA, HABITUAL COSTIVENESS, PALPITATION OF THE HEART, HEADACHE, PILES, NERVOUSNESS and GENERAL PROSTRATION OF THE NERVOUS SYSTEM, no medicine has ever given such perfect satisfaction as the Vegetine. It purifies the blood, cleanses all the organs, and possesses a controlling power over the nervous system.

The remarkable cures affected by Vegetine have induced many physicians and apothecaries whom we know to prescribe and use it in their own families.

In fact, Vegetine is the best remedy yet discovered for the above diseases, and is the only reliable Blood Purifier yet placed before the public.

Are not the many testimonials given for the different complaints satisfactory to any reasonable person suffering from any disease mentioned above, that they can be cured? Read the different testimonials given, and no one can doubt. In many of these cases the persons say that their pain and suffering cannot be expressed, as in cases of scrofula, where, apparently, the whole body was one mass of corruption. If Vegetine will relieve pain, cleanse, purify and cure such diseases, restoring the patient to perfect health after trying different physicians, many remedies, suffering for years, is it not conclusive proof, if you are a sufferer, you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures? It works in the blood, in the circulating fluid. It can truly be called the Great Blood Purifier. The great source of disease originates in the blood; and no medicine that does not act directly upon it, to purify and renovate, has any just claim upon public attention. When the blood becomes lifeless and stagnant, either from change of weather or of climate, want of exercise, irregular diet, or from any other cause, the Vegetine will renew the blood, carry off the putrid humors, cleanse the stomach, regulate the bowels, and impart a tone of vigor to the whole body. The conviction is, in the public mind as well as in the medical profession, that the remedies supplied by the Vegetable Kingdom are more safe, more successful in the cure of disease, than mineral medicines. Vegetine is composed of roots, barks and herbs. It is pleasant to take, and is perfectly safe to give to an infant. Do you need it? Do not hesitate to try it. You will never regret it.

WOULD NOT BE WITHOUT

VEGETINE

FOR TEN TIMES ITS COST.

The great benefit I have received from the use of Vegetine induces me to give my testimony in its favor. I believe it to be not only of great value for restoring the health, but a preventive of diseases peculiar to the spring and summer seasons. I would not be without it for ten times its cost. EDWARD TILDEN,
Attorney and General Agent for Massachusetts of the Craftsmen's Life Assurance Company, No 49 Sears' Building, Boston, Mass.

MEDICAL.

Wright's Rejuvenating Elixer.

For the restoration of Nature's forces. It gives new life and vigor to the aged, and causes the blood of youth to course through the veins. It effectually cures Impotency, Palpitation of the Heart, Loss of Muscular Power, Low Spirits, Disorganization of the Generative Organs, and all the train of ills that follow in the path of the transgressor of Nature's laws. Price $2 per bottle.

It will be readily understood that in the brief space afforded by the advertising columns of a public print, it is impossible to give all particulars of the diseases that may be cured by the CHEROKEE MEDICINES. That they are destined to become immensely popular is plainly obvious in consequence of their

GREAT INTRINSIC MERIT.

The pamphlet and circulars that accompany the medicines give all the information which cannot be given here, and the remedies may be had of any respectable druggist.

THE

"DOMESTIC" MONTHLY

A JOURNAL OF

Fashion, Literature, and Art.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"How a Journal of Fashion can combine fashion and literature at very low terms is well shown by this periodical. The May number, besides a colored Fashion Plate, has thirty-six pages, profusely illustrated, on the fashions of costumes for ladies and children, seasonable fabrics, trimmings, millinery, lingerie, coiffures, and domestic art, and yet with all this there is room for poems and tales, by popular authors, notices of new books, etc., and the price of all this matter is only $1.50 per annum. Take it all in all, we know of no periodical of which readers get so much for their money as those of the 'DOMESTIC' MONTHLY."—N. Y. Evening Mail.

"If one wishes the latest information concerning the latest fashions, the 'DOMESTIC' MONTHLY is ready with the intelligence, aided by abundant illustrations. It does not, however, neglect current literature, as it contains poems, a serial story, some interesting miscellany, and art notes."—N. Y. World.

"It combines literary merit with a great deal of information in regard to ladies' costumes, fabrics, toilettes, etc. It is plentifully illustrated in its fashion articles, and its list of contributions is deserving of much praise."—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

"A far better periodical than many of the so-called weekly papers."—Terrebonne Republican, Houma, La.

"One of the best Fashion Magazines that comes to our office."—Clarendon Press, Manning, S. C.

"The most delightful of the Fashion Magazines."—American Standard, Jersey City, N. J.

"We can heartily recommend it."—Iowa Democrat.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Is widely known as one of the most effectual remedies ever discovered for cleansing the system and purifying the blood. It has stood the test of years, with a constantly growing reputation, based on its intrinsic virtues, and sustained by its remarkable cures. So mild as to be safe and beneficial to children, and yet so searching as to effectually purge out the great corruptions of the blood, such as the scrofulous and syphilitic contamination. Impurities or diseases that have lurked in the system for years soon yield to this powerful antidote, and disappear. Hence its wonderful cures, many of which are publicly known, of Scrofula, and all scrofulous diseases, Ulcers, Eruptions, and eruptive disorders of the skin, Tumors, Blotches, Boils, Pimples, Pustules, Sores, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, and internal Ulcerations of the Uterus, Stomach, and Liver. It also cures other complaints, to which it would not seem especially adapted, such as Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Fits, Neuralgia, Heart Disease, Female Weakness, Debility, and Leucorrhœa, when they are manifestations of the scrofulous poisons.

It is an excellent restorer of health and strength in the Spring. By renewing the appetite and vigor of the digestive organs, it dissipates the depression and listless languor of the season. Even where no disorder appears, people feel better, and live longer, for cleansing the blood. The system moves on with renewed vigor and a new lease of life.

Bellefonte and County.

The terrible news
From Syracuse,
Gives Daniel Greenbacks
Bush the blues.

——The best five-cent cigars sold in the county are at Green's drug store.

——A new hotel is being erected at Howard station, by Mr. Welsh. A needed institution.

——A few snow-flakes were flying through the air on Friday last. Fact: we can prove it by Doctor Belford.

——We have a communication from W. H. Blair, also one from "Farmer," which are crowded out this week. Will appear in next issue.

COAL.—Shortlige & Co. are now receiving Anthracite coal from the old Baltimore mines, at Wilkesbarre, and will supply consumers at reasonable prices.

LOST.—A large setter dog, color, tan and white, named "Thorn," was last seen in Marion township. Any information as to his whereabouts, or his return to this office, will be liberally rewarded.

——Leonard Dale, a son of A. J. Dale, of Centre Hall, had his leg broken while playing in the school yard during recess. He was on the fence, from which he fell, causing his leg to be broken between the knee and ankle, says the Reporter.

——Don't fail to call on Montgomery for hats, caps, underwear, gloves, lap robes, horse blankets, collars, cuffs, etc. Shirts made to order. Call before fair week. Stock now complete in every department. A fuller and more varied stock of cloths and cassimeres than ever.

——Township auditors are being prosecuted for not publishing their annual statements. They are not to be pitied. The law plainly directs them to do so, and attaches a penalty for neglect of the same; besides, the people have a right to know what their officers are doing with their money. Auditors, beware!

PAVEMENTS.—New pavements are being erected in various parts of town. The old one in front of the school grounds has been torn away and a new one is being laid by Superintendent McKnight, of the Gas Works. The pavement just completed around the grounds of Col. D. Greenbacks Bush, is the most substantial and the handsomest looking pavement we ever saw.

——Rev. Walter Lilly, in company with Rev. Fisher, pastor of the Centre Hall Lutheran church, William Wolf, that genial gentleman and well known merchant, and Hon. F. Kurtz, of the Reporter, visited the celebrated Pennsvalley cave on Friday, and discovered a new chamber which had never before been explored. They speak in wondering terms of that remarkable cavern.

——Our fellow townsman, General James A. Beaver, addressed the Republicans of Huntingdon county at their grand rally last week, and made a telling speech in behalf of Republicanism, which made the Democracy quake. He took very strong grounds against the so-called temperance party, and cautioned Republicans not to have anything to do with it, for it is only a hired auxiliary in the interest of Democracy. General Beaver now occupies the front rank as a distinguished citizen and public orator.

——The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, of New York, are peculiarly fortunate in their selection of agents. Messrs. J. A. Rankin & Son, their agents for this place, are among our most reliable and respected citizens and successful business men. On Friday last, we had the pleasure of meeting a special agent of the same company, Mr. John J. Mathias, of Mahony City, Pa., whom we found to be a thorough and accomplished gentleman. He has been here for a week or more looking up the interests of the company he represents. His brief visit resulted in the formation of many pleasant acquaintances, and a still more favorable impression for his excellent company.

AN EXPLOSION.—On Thursday, at half past nine A. M., the loud report of an explosion brought crowds of people to the neighborhood of Reynolds' Bank. Their upturned faces directed attention to a window in the third story, whose glass had been shattered to atoms. Something in that locality had blown up, but nobody could imagine what there could be in the third story of a building that would explode and make a report like a forty-pounder, and bring all the neighboring populace to the scene. Speculations were rife as to the cause. Major Reynolds, everybody knows, is opposed to inflation, and no insinuations on that score were entertained. It might have been the report of the extraction of a tooth by Dr. Belford, who has his office on the second floor; but the doctor has enough muscle without the use of steam, and the mystery went begging for a solution again. Some one suddenly remembered that Joe. W. Furey, of the "Watchman," occupied that part of the building, and then the mournful story was set a float that, while writing another editorial on Governor Hartranft's horse stable, he had exploded and broken all that glass, and caused all the flurry.

The truth, however, was arrived at, when it was found that the room contained a machine called a Vulcanizer, used by Doctor Belford in the manufacture of false teeth. The concern sort 'o runs by steam, and the doctor had been testing it in the presence of an agent of the Vulcanizer Manufacturing Company, after which they retired to Reynolds' Bank, the doctor forgetting to turn off the steam. The natural result was a blow-up. We are sorry the doctor has met with the loss, and also sorry that the manufacture of false teeth by steam must be discontinued for a season.

CHRISTIAN TEMPERANCE ALLIANCE CONVENTION.—A Christian Temperance Alliance Convention will be held in the Court House, at Bellefonte, on Tuesday, the 28th day of September, at 10 A. M., for the purpose of organizing the churches of Centre county under the Christian Temperance Alliance of the State of Pennsylvania.

All the pastors of Centre county are invited to be present as members, also every Sabbath-school superintendent is invited to attend. In addition to these, every congregation in Centre county is requested to send one member as a delegate.

Since licenses to sell liquor have been granted in our country there has been a fearful increase of drunkenness and crime.

Let the church look to God and cry aloud against the sin of intemperance. Let there be special prayer in all our churches and Sabbath-schools on Sabbath, the 26th of September, for God's blessing on the efforts of the church to put down this curse. We urge that every minister preach on this subject on or before that day.

Will you come?

Will you see that your church or Sabbath-school is represented?

Please send a letter or postal card in answer to these questions to Rev. Walter Lilly, Bellefonte, on or before the 21st of September. Don't forget.

By order of committee.

REV. R. CRITTENDEN,
REV. J. ZEIGLER,
REV. WALTER LILLY,
REV. GEO. W. MILLER,
REV. W. T. WYLIE. } Com.

P. S.—The ladies of Bellefonte will provide entertainment for all who desire it, if they notify Mr. H. Y. Stitzer by the 25th.

——The Centre County Sunday School Association, propose to hold a Sunday school campaign. An afternoon and evening institute will be held in the following places:

Georges Valley church and Green Grove Ev. church—Rev. D. M. Wolf, H. Y. Stitzer, Esq., and others.

Aaronsburg and Woodward—Rev. W. T. Wylie and D. S. Keller, Esq.

Gatesburg and Linden Hall—Prof. John Hamilton and others.

Rebersburg and Brumgard—Rev. R. Crittenden and Gen. Jas. A. Beaver.

Philipsburg and Powelton, or Sandy Ridge—Revs. Lilly, Reese, and Miller.

Mount Pleasant U. R. Church and Port Matilda—Rev. W. Gwynn, Charles F. Cook, Esq., and others.

Hecla Furnace school house and Nittany Hall—Rev. R. Crittenden and A. O. Furst, Esq.

Fairview school house—Rev. W. H. Biggart, Stewart Lyon, Esq., and others.

Eagleville or Howard—Rev. W. T. Wylie, and others.

Subjects for addresses and discussion: Methods of Teaching Employed by our Saviour—Catechetical Instruction—How can we Instruct the Young in Practical Benevolence—Bible Study as Related to Revivals. Bible schools in winter—The Bible in the Memory—Bible Teaching on Temperance—Reviews, Sources of Success. Other topics and questions that any may wish to submit will be considered.

——We must say that Mr. Kurtz, of the "Reporter," deserves the premium for his ingenious business notices of Sechler & Co., of this place. But then Sechler & Co., are the liveliest grocery men in the county.

PERSONALS.—Hon. James Millikin returned home from Newport, on Wednesday last, looking and feeling very much better, from his protracted stay at the sea-shore.

—Mr. James Keenan, son of Mr. Stephen Keenan, of this place, who has been living in Alabama for over seventeen years, and who was a soldier in the rebel army, is visiting his relatives here.

—And now Mr. Frank Grice, of the Bush House, is married. So we are informed by Friday's "Watchman," which says he has taken a "connubial partner," which we are informed on the highest authority, means a wife. Well, we always thought that man Grice was too bashful for anything of that kind.

—Mr. J. M. Passmore, general agent of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, was in to see us yesterday. He informs us that Professor Bergen, formerly a member of the State College faculty, and who has many friends in this county, is in very delicate health, and is going to make his home in the South in future.

—A. O. Furst, Esq., is attending court in Lock Haven this week.

—The "Watchman" says that Colpetzer's new baby is named after Levi A. Miller. Good! Now, Colly, feed your horse better, and don't be pounding a skeleton around over our hilly streets.

—Rev. W. T. Wylie has been visiting in the West for some time. There was no service in his church on Sunday.

—Miss Regena Meese, who has been visiting her brother in St. Paul, Minn., returned home last week.

—Rev. M. L. Smyser, of Philipsburg, preached two impressive sermons to the people of his former charge, in the M. E. Church last sunday. His friends are legion in Bellefonte.

—Hon. Fred Kurtz, who is as bald-headed as a canvass-covered wagon, thinks he's shaking his gray locks at us. Vain delusion. Tell us how you like the Syracuse platform and give us more items about red heifers.

—Amos C. Noyes, of Clinton, carries a dream-book round in his coat-tail pocket and looks for fur on the north side of the forest trees; and still he can't make up his mind what beat him for Governor.

INSTITUTE.—The Sabbath School Institute of Benner and Spring twps., will be held at the Shiloh church, on the 3d Saturday in October, at 2 o'clock, P. M. It is hoped there will be a full attendance.

(Watchman please copy.)

——At a camp-meeting last summer a venerable sister began the hymn:

"My soul, be on thy guard,
Ten thousand foes arise."

She began in shrill quivers, but it was pitched too high. "Ten thousand—ten thousand," she screeched, and stopped. "Start her at five thousand!" cried a converted stock-broker present. —Exchange.

——The Reporter, speaking of the election of P. B. Wilson to the Lieutenant Colonelcy of the 5th Regt. N. G., pays him the following handsome compliment which we heartily endorse:

A better choice could not have been made, and we congratulate the Major upon his promotion. He is a born military man, and is a fine looking officer. If he lives until the next war, Centre county will boast of a General who will have true laurels to show. He will honor the sword, and make the enemy "git."

——F. Potts Green, sells the best five-cent cigars to be found in this city for just five cents, the best ten-cent cigars for ten cents, the best fifteen-cent cigars for fifteen cents, the best twenty-cent cigars for twenty cents, and so on, as high as you want to go or can afford to go, but we would not advise any printer to invest more than five cents at a time, the times are too hard, and really Green's five-cent cigars are hard to beat.

——The "Watchman" says that a new Grange Hall, at Pine Hall, in Ferguson township, was dedicated with appropriate ceremonies, on Wednesday last. Addresses were delivered by Rev. George Guyer, Captain John A. Hunter, and other gentlemen, whose names we have not heard. There was a large number of Patrons present, and the general interest manifested shows the Order to be in a flourishing condition. The Ferguson Patrons are the first, we believe, to erect their own building, and at Pine Hall they have one now dedicated to their own use that is a credit not only to the Order but to that end of the county.

HELP TO MOTHERS NURSING INFANTS.—It is a conceded fact that mothers who have the care, anxiety and draught of nursing infants are weak and need the aid of strengthening tonic to make up the nourishment required for the growth of the child. Ale, porter, and lager beer have often been recommended. Of late, since physicians have become aware that the Port Grape Wine, produced by Alfred Speer, of Passaic, N. J., is strictly pure, they have prescribed it instead of ale and porter. This wine is principally sought for by mothers who have nursing infants at the breast, as the best supplying medium to be found. The wine is rich in body and not intoxicating but gently stimulating. Druggists generally keep it, and sell it for a dollar a bottle.—Enquirer.

J. Zellers & Son, agents, Bellefonte.

CLOSING EXERCISES OF THE CENTRE COUNTY NORMAL SCHOOL.—The above institution will close the summer session, at Milesburg, to-morrow evening with appropriate exercises, the programme of which will be given below. Professor Henry Meyer, the accomplished county superintendent of schools, has, during the present summer, conducted one of the most successful sessions that the Normal School of Centre County has ever known. It has always been a good school, and has fitted many teachers, who have since become ornaments in the profession. The session has not only maintained the high reputation of the school but has proved that Professors Meyers and Gramley (the assistant instructor) are peculiarly adopted for the business of imparting normal instruction. The session ended, the teachers will shortly open their winter schools. Their closing exercises, judging from the programme appended, will be unusually interesting, and insure a crowded house. Here is the GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER.—It is natural for people suffering with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint or any derangements of the digestive organs, such as Sour Stomach, Sick Headache, Habitual Costiveness, Palpitation of the Heart, Heart-burn, Water-brash, gnawing and burning pains at the pit of the Stomach, Yellow Skin, Coated Tongue, and disagreeable taste in the mouth, coming up of food after eating, low spirits, &c., to put off from day to day buying an article that they know has cured their neighbor, friend, or relative, yet they have no faith in it until it is too late. But if you will go to your Druggists, F. P. Green and J. Zeller & son and get a bottle of GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER your immediate cure is as as certain as your life. Sample Bottles of this medicine can be obtained for 10 cents to try its superior virtue.

Regular size 75 cents. Try it, two doses will relieve you.

——The Sunday schools of Buffalo Run and Half Moon united in a grove near the residence of Mr. Caleb Kepheart, on Saturday last, and pic-niced. The day was rather chilly, but the cool atmosphere seemed to put life into everybody, and a more pleasant time could not have been had. Athletic games were instituted and continued during the forenoon. Dinner was served about one o'clock, after which the multitude assembled on seats prepared beforehand and listened to an eloquent address delivered by H. Y. Stytzer, Esq., of Bellefonte. Following him came S. D. Gray, Esq., who entertained all with a very instructive talk. The day was fully occupied in a most enjoyable manner. We suggest to the good people of that vicinity, however, that they held their pic-nic about one month later than there was any need for. We never enjoy pic-nics when compelled to wear overcoats and mittens.

——Signor Bosco will be at Reynolds' Hall, Sept. 22, 23, and 24. This gentleman of the mysterious art, who is making a tour of the country, seems to be giving good satisfaction wherever he exhibits. Most of his slight-of-hand tricks will be new to the people of Bellefonte, and his distribution of presents is said to be fair and above board. We clip the following from the Daily Derrick, of July 20:

SIGNOR BOSCO.—Last evening this renowned Wizard gave his closing entertainment to an immense audience whose gratification found expression in frequent bursts of hearty applause. Many slight-of-hand tricks, most of them new to the people of Oil City, were performed admirably, giving high satisfaction to every beholder. At the conclusion of the various feats, a number of elegant and costly presents were distributed ranging from a fine piece of silver ware to a gold watch. The Signor is a master of Wizard art, and should he revisit our city at some future time, we bespeak him the liberal patronage his interesting performance so well deserves.

——The last Clinton Republican received at this office contained a little "extra" addressed to us. The principal item of news this extra contained was a statement that we owed them a year's subscription and had better pay it. It is the observance of these little courtesies extended to friends at a distance which smooth life's pathway and seed it down with posies. "True politeness is true morality."

UNSTEADINESS OF PORK.—Mr. Joseph Strunk, of Reedsville, sold a hog for $25.00 last week, and as the purchaser was driving it away it swam into a mill-dam and was drowned.

——Pure linseed oil putty at Green's drug store.

——Money sold at a premium of sixteen per cent. at the monthly meeting of the Bellefonte B. & L. Association, on Saturday evening.

——No lady or gentleman should be without a box of Cocoa-camphorine this cold weather; it keeps the hands soft and velvety. Sold at Green's.

——If you are still in need of fruit cans, Cook & Schroyer can supply you. Their place is on Water street, just below the corner of High street.

——As summer wears away and the evenings become longer, our people are more and more convinced of the blessings of the Bellefonte Library rooms.

——After an experience of over ten years, we are fully convinced that what this country most needs is a good five-cent cigar.

——It people think money is scarce, just let them stand around for awhile and listen to the offered wagers on the Olympian games for the Milliken prizes.

——Pure drugs and medicines at F.P. Green's, in Bush House Block, physicians prescriptions carefully prepared. No danger of mistakes if you trade at Green's.

——Goodlander, of the Clearfield "Republican," has taken in a partner, Noel B. Lee. Success, financially, brethren, but bad luck to your ornery politics.

——David Kockler, of Curtin township, argues in the "Watchman" for a post-office in his neighborhood, and he is right. His nearest office is six miles distant.

——If you are troubled with a cold or cough, get a bottle of Green's Compound of Syrup of Tar, Honey, and Bloodroot. It gives almost instant relief, and is pleasant to take.

——Cook & Schroyer do all kinds of repairing of tin ware. They also make a speciality of putting up spouting. Call and see them at their emporium on Water street.

——Rev. Wm. H. Dill, of Clearfield, has been appointed historian of the rise and progress of Methodism within the bounds of the Altoona District. Any one in possession of any important facts should communicate with him.

——Cook & Schroyer, the new firm lately engaged in the tin business, are now ready to do any kind of work in their line. Do you want a stove put up, send to Cook & Schroyer, and the work will be done promptly and in a workman-like manner.

——Mr. C. F Montgomery has just returned from the city with a full line of gentlemen's furnishing goods, for fall and winter wear. His stock is really a superior one, and should be examined by all who need anything that a man wears. Next to a church it is the place to get a Sunday outfit.

——We took dinner on Monday at the Brockerhoff House, and remark that if any hungry traveler strays in this region and wants to surround seventy-five cents worth of good, clean, healthy food and pay fifty cents therefor, then the Brockerhoff is the house where he wants to register his name. That is our experience.

——Rev. G. W. Miller, of the M. E. Church, delivered a lecture at Unionville on Saturday evening. A large audience listened to him and pronounced him one of the most eloquent gentlemen they had ever heard. Mr. Miller's superior powers as a public speaker are becoming so well known that demands are being made on him in many different parts of the State to fill up lecture courses.

——Wilson & Hicks have the largest assortment of stoves that they have ever had, and some of the best in the market, Speers Anti-Clinker stoves and double heaters, among the number. They have also all other kinds of stoves, portable heaters and ranges, which they will put up at the shortest notice. Call and see them before purchasing elsewhere; you will not regret it. They are selling now at very reduced prices.

——Mr. Charles E. Anderson, formerly a resident of Bellefonte, now living in Williamsport, met with a singular mishap, a week or more ago, which almost proved fatal. He had been suffering from a severe cold and rheumatism, and his physician had prescribed a liniment to be applied to his knees, and a decoction to be taken inwardly. By some mistake the bottles got mixed, and the medicine intended for the inner man was rubbed on his rheumatic quarters and a bulky dose of the liniment was licked off a spoon and meandered down his throat, burning its way like a hot iron—it was a deadly poison. Immediately comprehending the situation, the sufferer sprang from his bed, regarding not for apparel, and darted down the street to a drug store, where a physician applied a stomach pump and other restoratives, thereby saving his life. We congratulate Mr. A. on his escape, and hope that it may be many years before the rheumatism or any other enemy of the body may make it necessary for poisonous liniments to find their way into his neighborhood.

——Colpetzer's wife gave birth to baby, the other day, and the "Watchman" says that the happy father immediately thereafter started after our friend Levi Miller, and told him to come to his house and write the baby's name (it is a male child) down in the Bible, "Levi Miller Colpetzer," and that people are indulging in winks and innuendoes, and insinuations calculated to embarrass Levi. Now, this is the "Watchman" associate's story: but when the fact that the aforesaid child's name is actually written down in the Bible, "Levi Furey Colpetzer," perhaps there will be more winks and insinuations at brother Furey's expense.

A CHALLENGE TO RIFLEMEN.—The various Rifle Teams of Centre county, send challenge to the riflemen of Mifflin, Huntingdon, Blair, Clearfield, Clinton and Union Counties, to come to Bellefonte, and contest with them, on Thursday, October 7, 1875, for the elegant gold prize offered by James Millikin Esq., for the best three rifle shots, 100 yards range, and open sights; and for either of them to take the prize from this county, if they can.

By order of the Rifle Teams of Centre county.

D. H. HASTINGS,
Chairman Committee.

——The trial of Siney and Xingo Parks was to have come off yesterday before Judge Orvis in the Quarter Sessions of Clearfield county. Siney, since his arrest, has been little heard of, but Xingo Parks has been working like a little hippopotamus for a successful issue out of his troubles. We saw him in front of our office on Friday, and are much obliged for an invitation to be present during his trial.

——The hunting season is now upon us, and our male population is divided into three classes, as follows: the men who own guns, the smallest class of the three; the men who have borrowed guns, which is somewhat larger than the former class, and the men who are trying to borrow guns, which last class comprises about four-fifths of the population.

——Here is the way to tell a good horse—stand in front of his shoulder, and pull his head down gently, till his ear is at the level of your lips. Then tell him.

DIED.

In Boalsburg, Sept. 14, 1875, Ezra D. Brislin, aged 7? years 9 months and 25 days.

In Milesburg, Aug. 16, 1875, at the residence of Daniel P. Shope, James Alexander, aged 87 years, 7 months and 5 days.

In Memoriam.

James Alexander departed this life at the residence of Daniel P. Shope, Esq., of Milesburg, Pa., on the 16th of August, 1875.

Mr. Alexander was born in Cecil county, Maryland, on the 11th day of January, 1788, and at the time of his death was 87 years 7 months and 5 days old. He moved with his father, when very young, to Mifflin county, Pa. In April, 1809, he moved again with his father to Bald Eagle Valley, Centre county, Pa. He united with the Presbyterian church, of Bellefonte, of which the Rev. James Linn, D. D., was then pastor, about the year 1812. Thus, for 63 years he was a faithful follower of Christ. He married Miss Ellenor Blair, of Milesburg, December 23, 1813, whom he survived 7 years and 4 months. They had no children of their own, but raised many. He was elected to the office of ruling elder in the church of Bellefonte, during Mr. Linn's time, and continued in office during the pastorate of Rev. Joseph Barnard, and part of that of Rev. A. Yeomans, during whose time Mr. Alexander and 17 others were dismissed from the Bellefonte church, and constituted the church of Milesburg. On the same day (March 5, 1868) he was elected and installed ruling elder of said church, which position he filled faithfully till the time of his death.

This man's life was an illustration of the grace of God. For more than 60 years he sustained an unblemished reputation as a Christian. He had the frailties which are common to men, but he had also the grace which is not so common. He was a loyal member of the Presbyterian church, but his charity embraced all other Christian churches. He was the true friend of his pastor, and was always ready to help him in his work. He was one of the chief supporters of the church of which he was a member, and made it one of his heirs in his will. For the last 7 years he seemed to live chiefly to promote the spiritual and temporal interests of his own church. During all this time he was never absent from church on the Sabbath, nor from the weekly prayer-meeting, except when away from home, or unable to go, which was very rare. He was extremely conscientious in all his dealings, and faithful in the discharge of his duties. He was seldom absent from the Sabbath-school. In all things he was an "example to the flock." He was a subscriber to the Presbyterian Banner, from the time it was started by Dr. McKinney, and did more than any other man in this community to circulate that paper and the American Messenger. He was a life-long friend of the cause of temperance, which he furthered both by his personal influence and his means. He was "rich in good works, ready to distribute, willing to communicate." He died as he lived, trusting in the merits of Christ alone for salvation. He began to show signs of the coming end in May, but continued to attend church up to the fourth of July, when was his last appearance in the house of God till carried there on his bier. He breathed his last on the 16th of August, and his ransomed spirit returned to God who gave it.

"Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth: yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors; and their works do follow them." W.
